What if we all
looked alike?

Would we all think

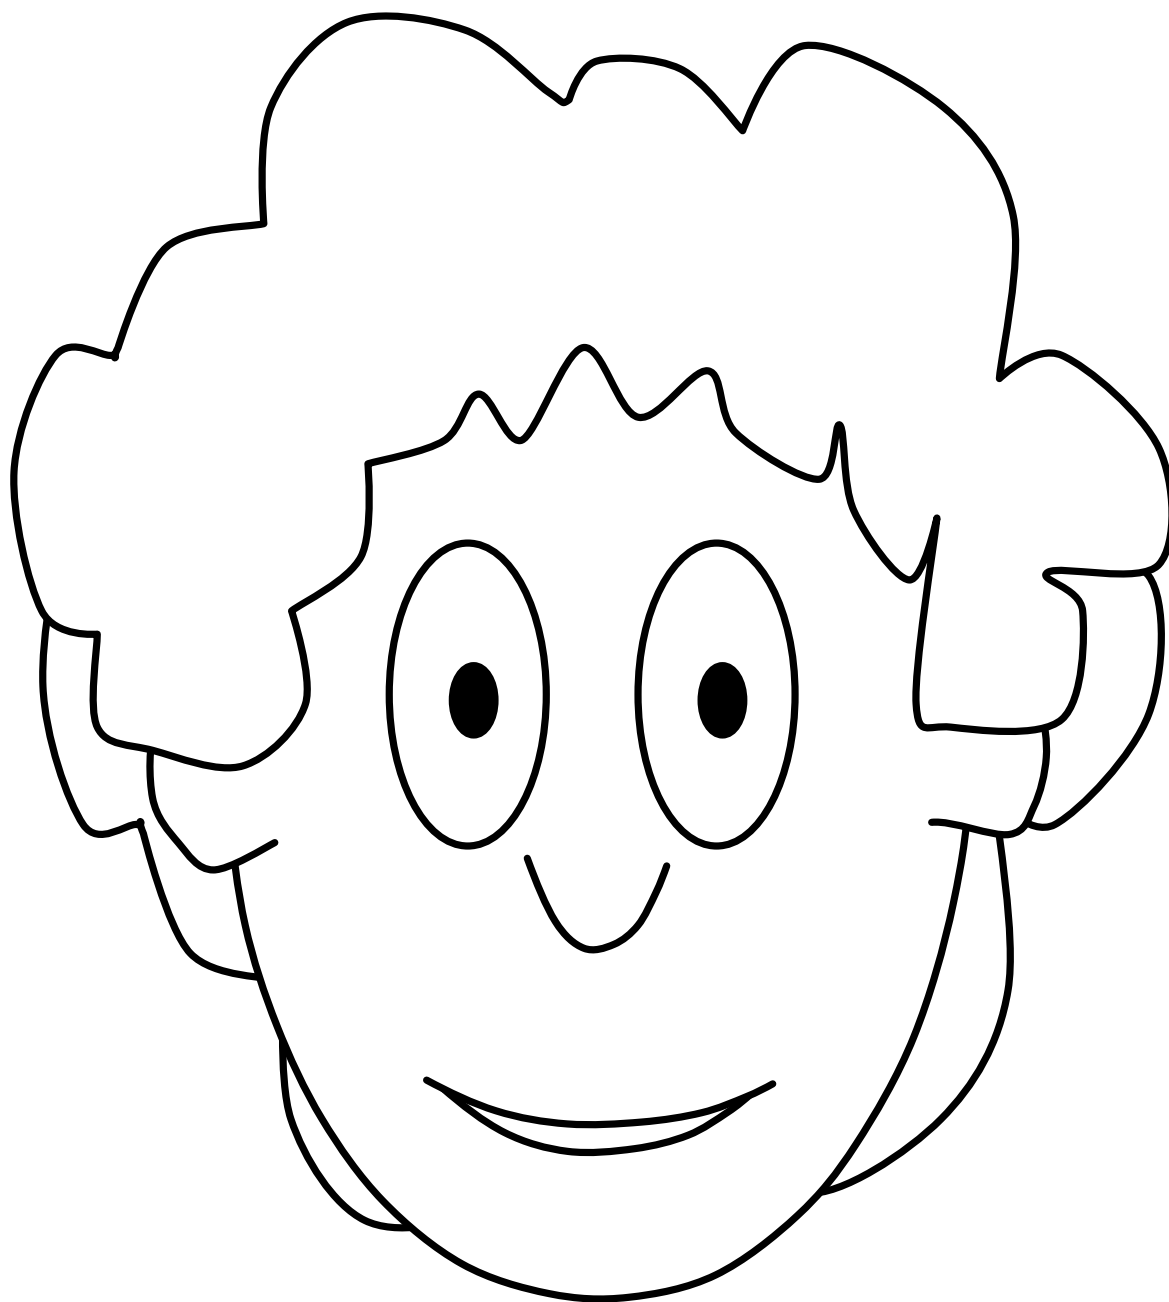

we all look

JUST RIGHT

What if you

looked like you?

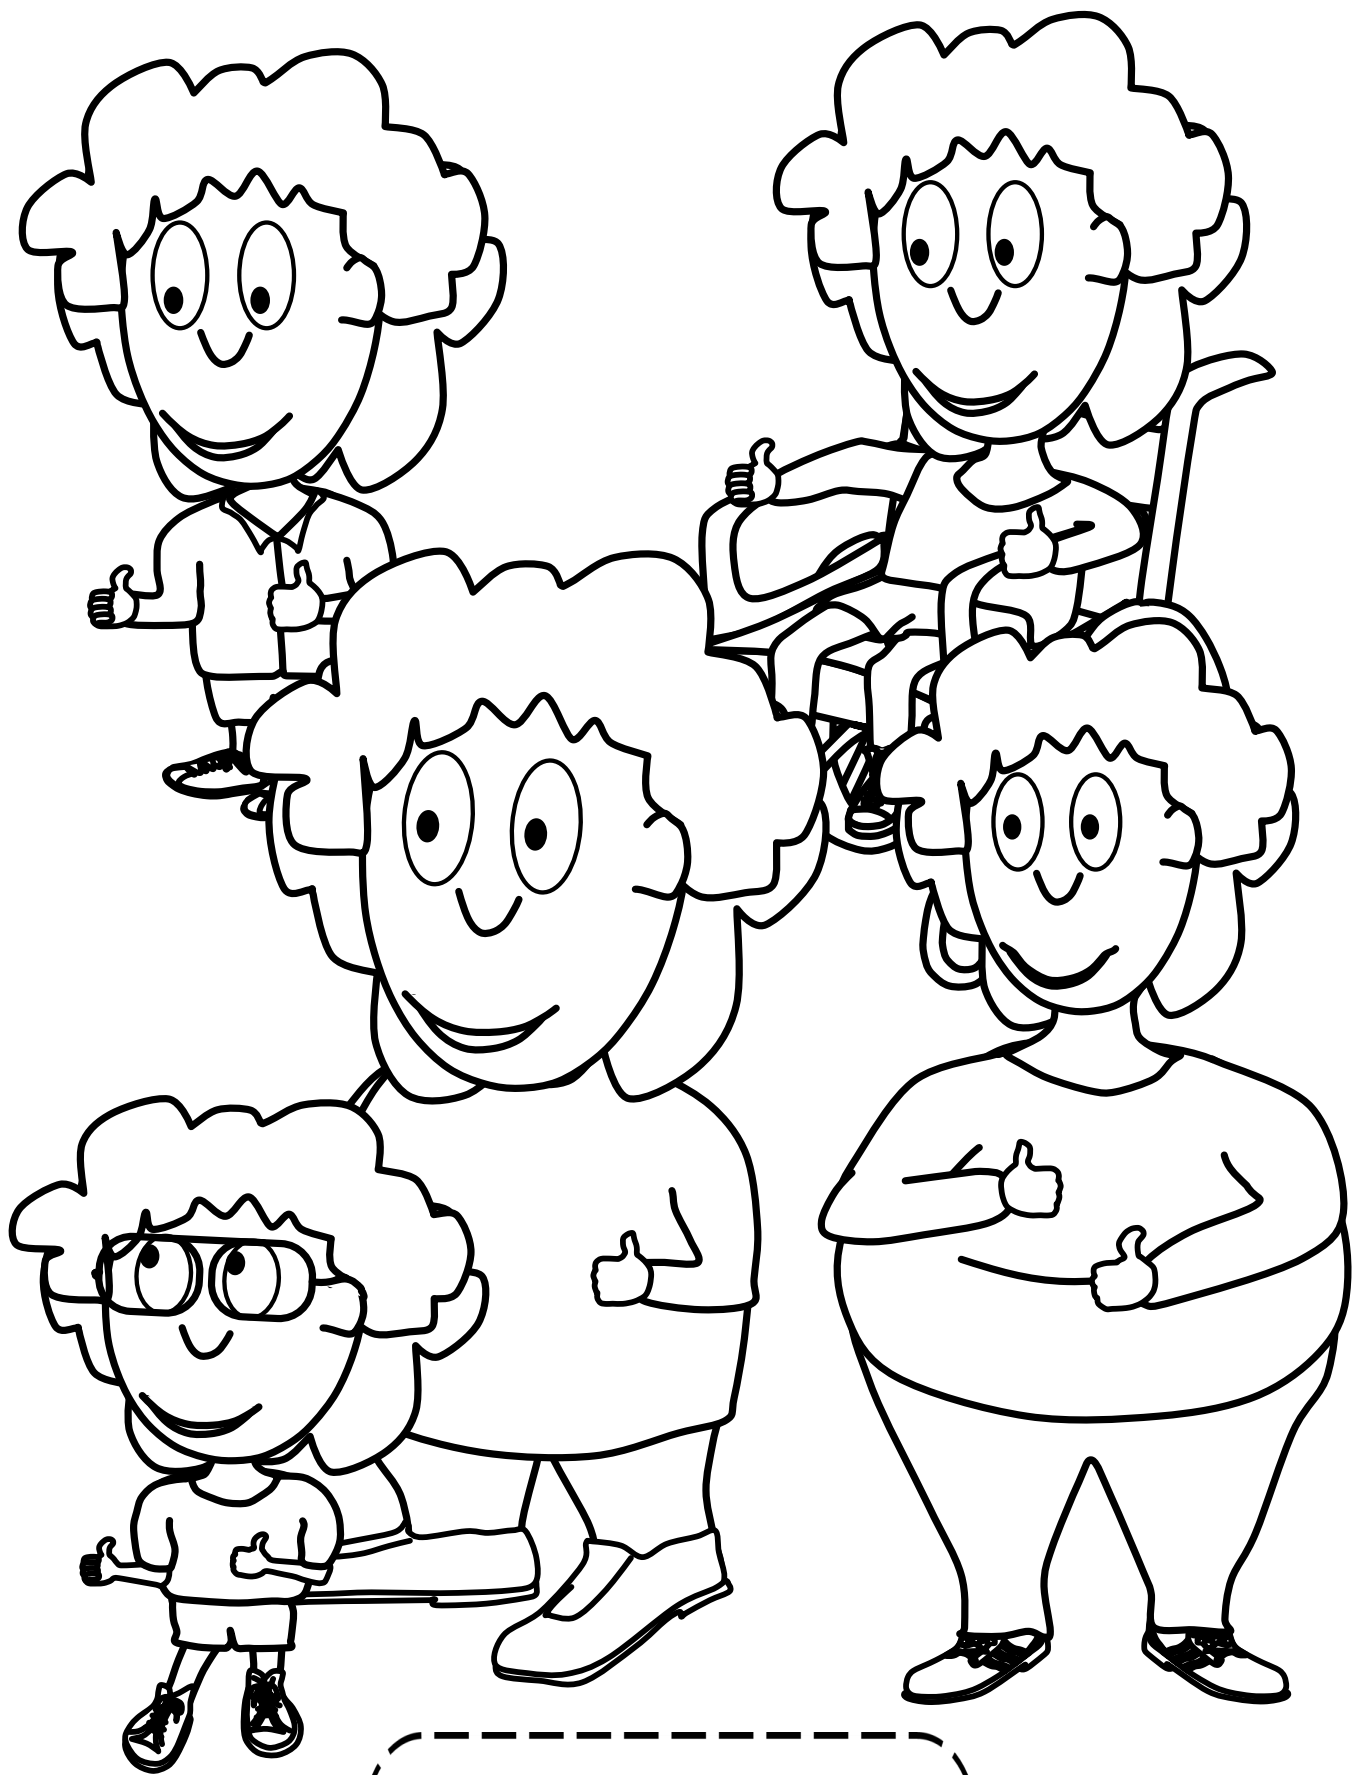

And we all did, too?

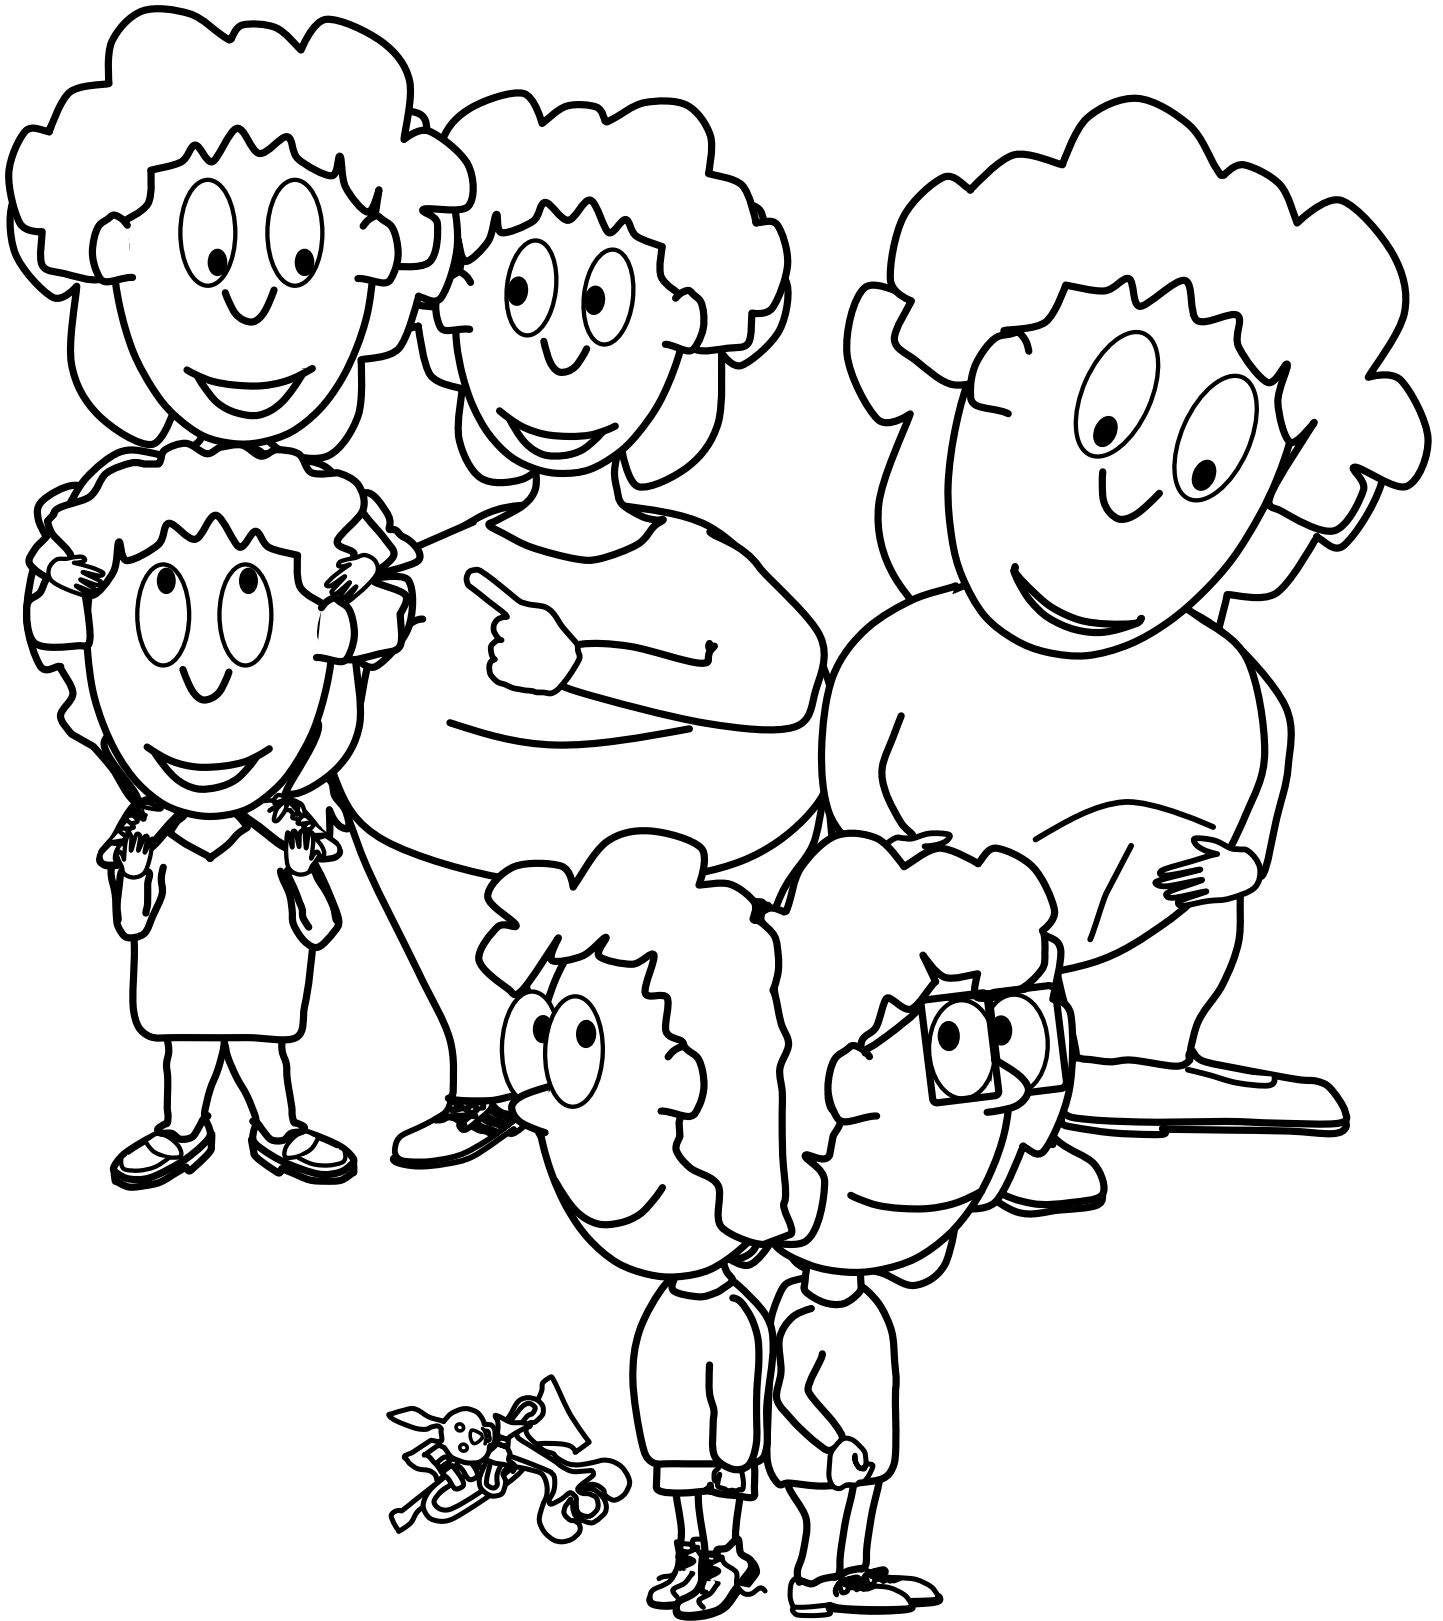

Then we would all look

JUST RIGHT

What if everyone

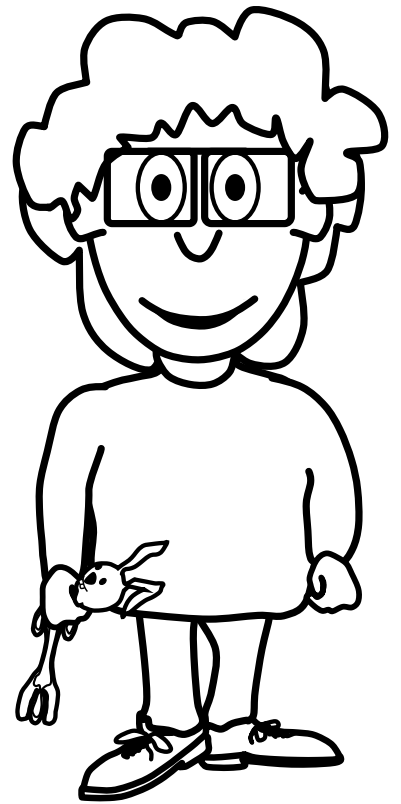

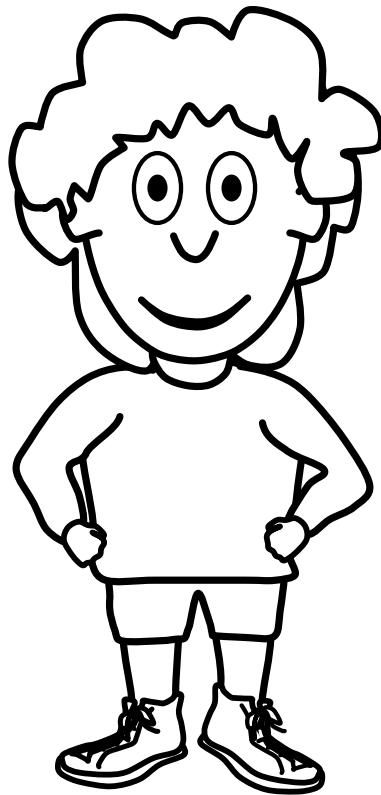

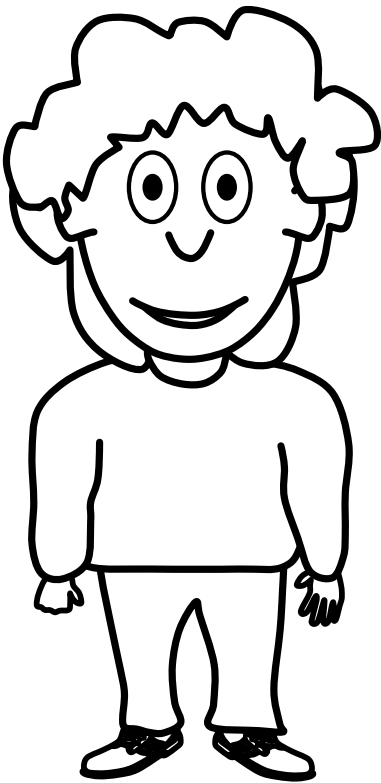

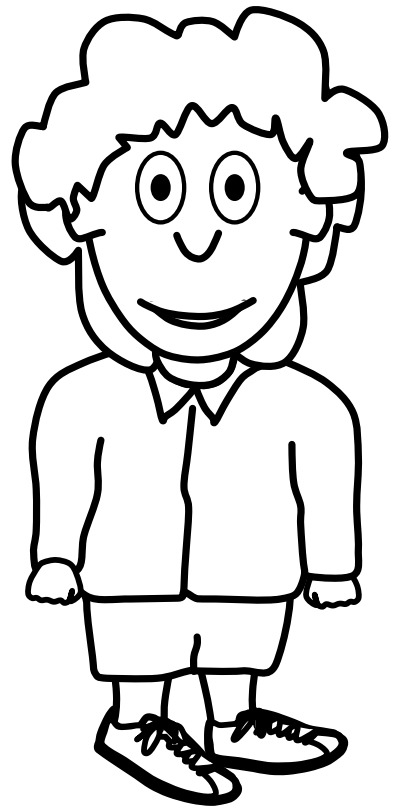

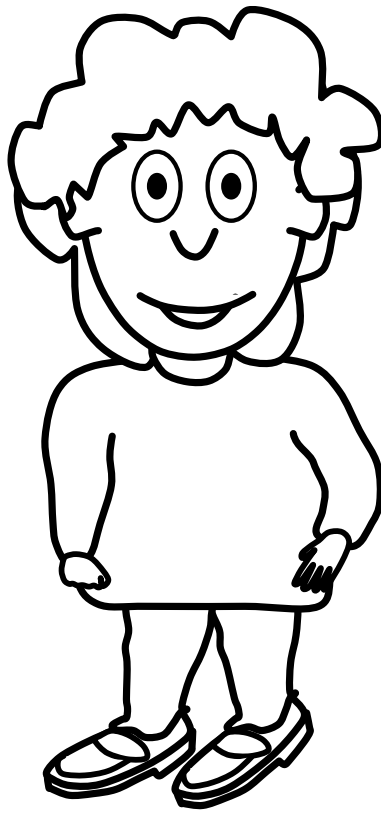

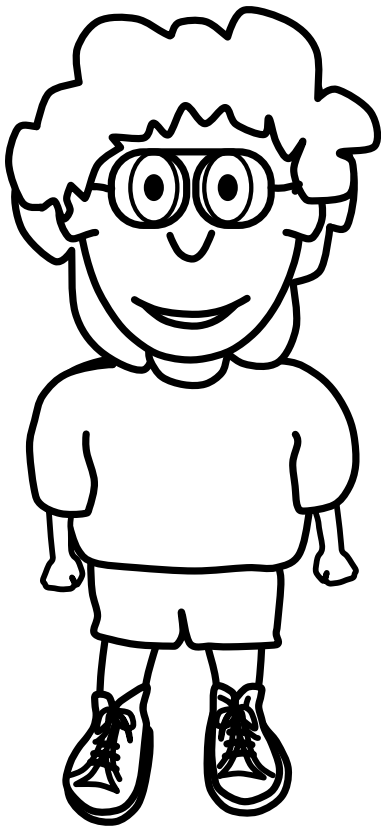

was the same size?

All
just
as high

and all just as wide.

No

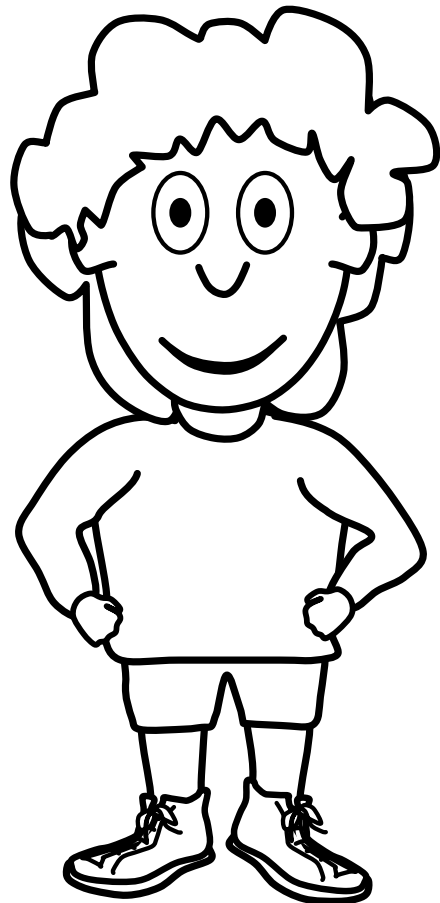

'too big'

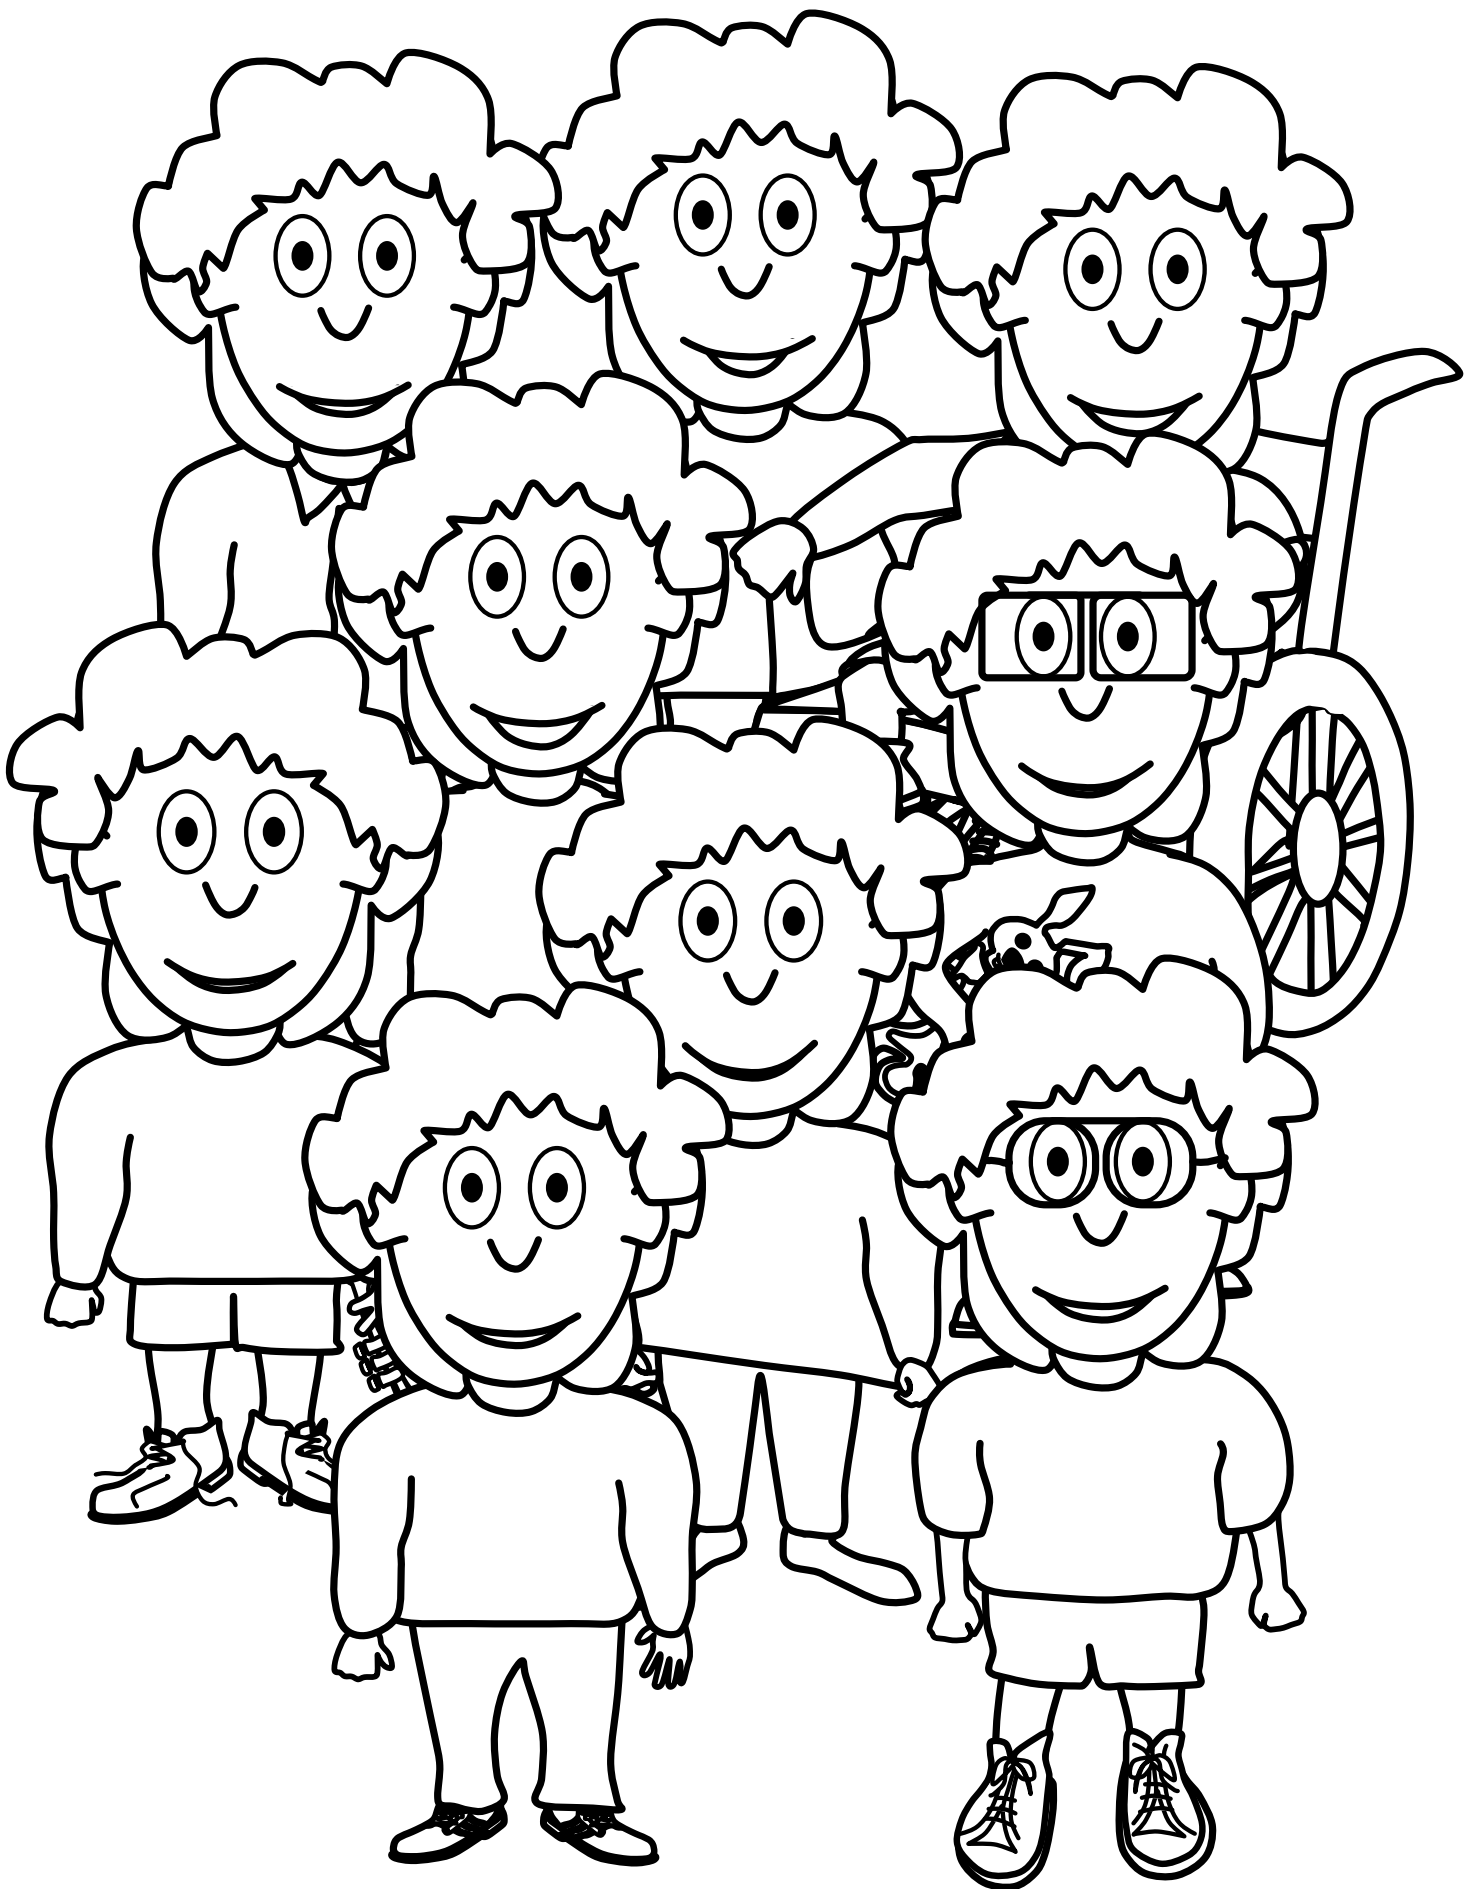

or

'too small',

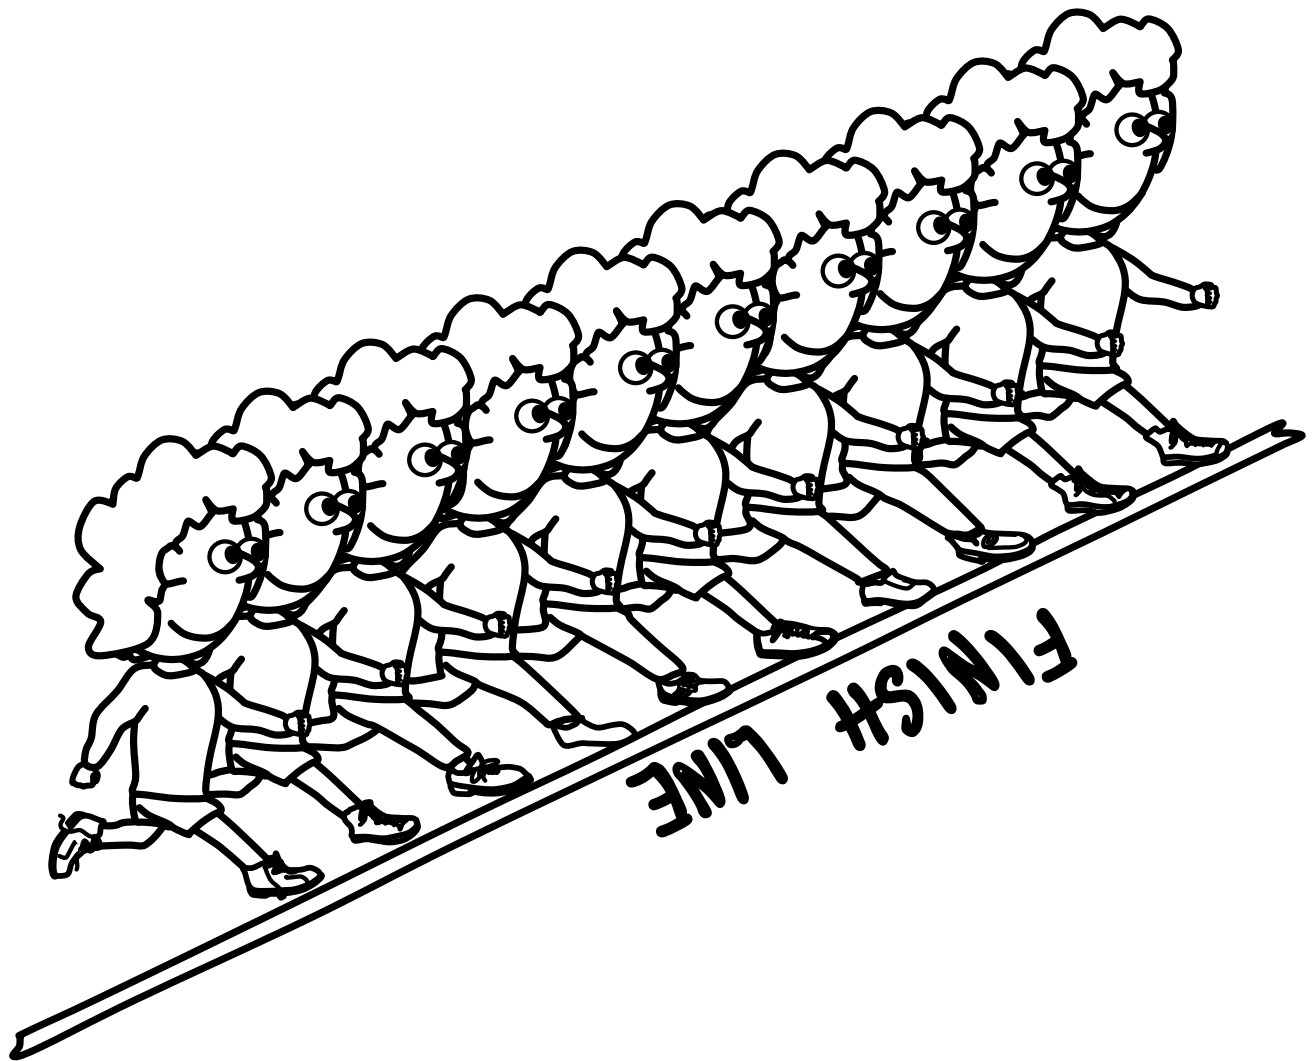

just one size fits all!

If everyone
was the same size.

What if all of us
all played the same?

No matter what sport

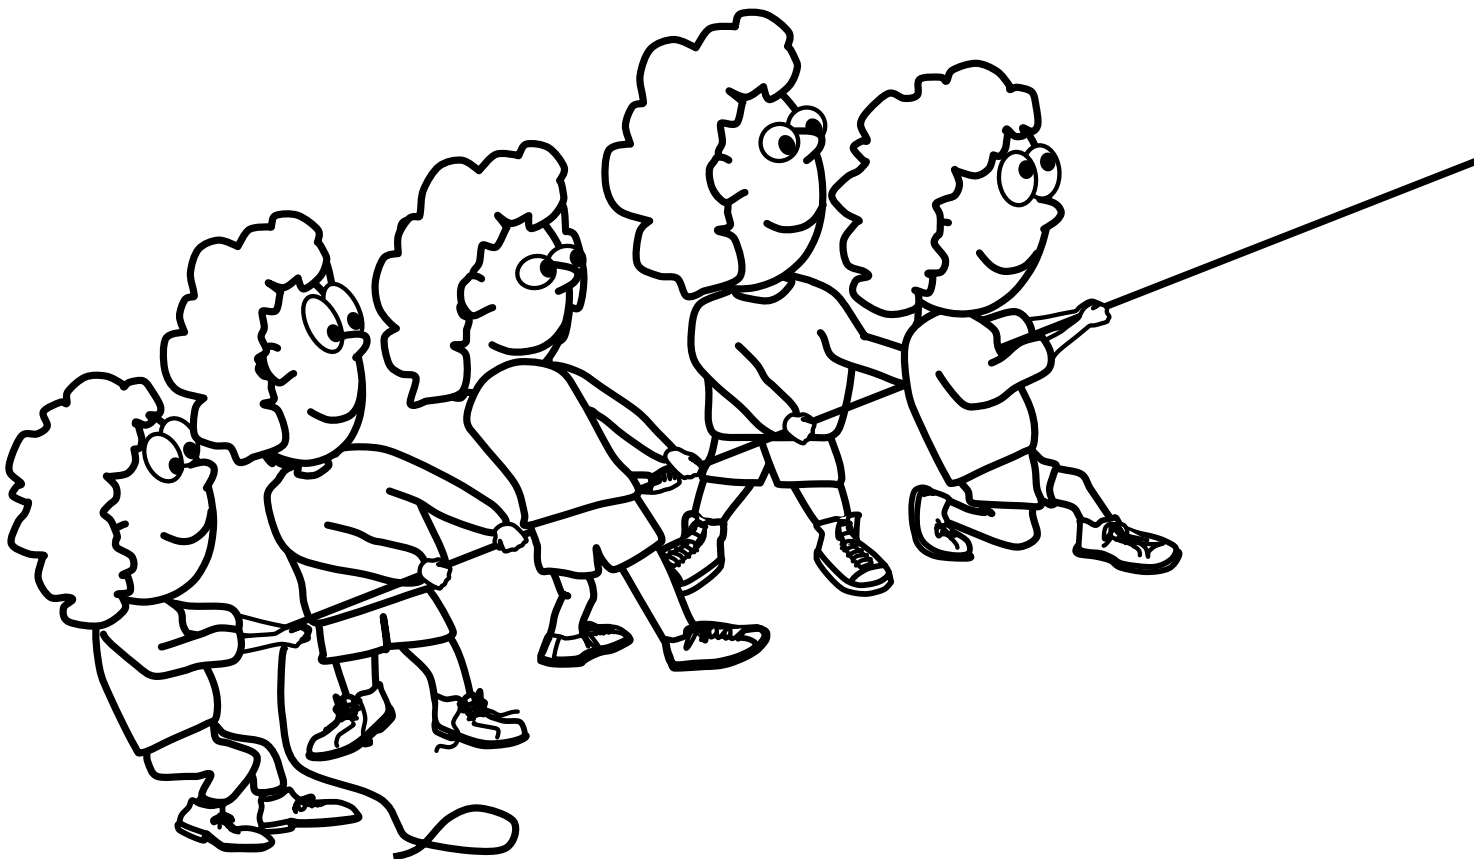

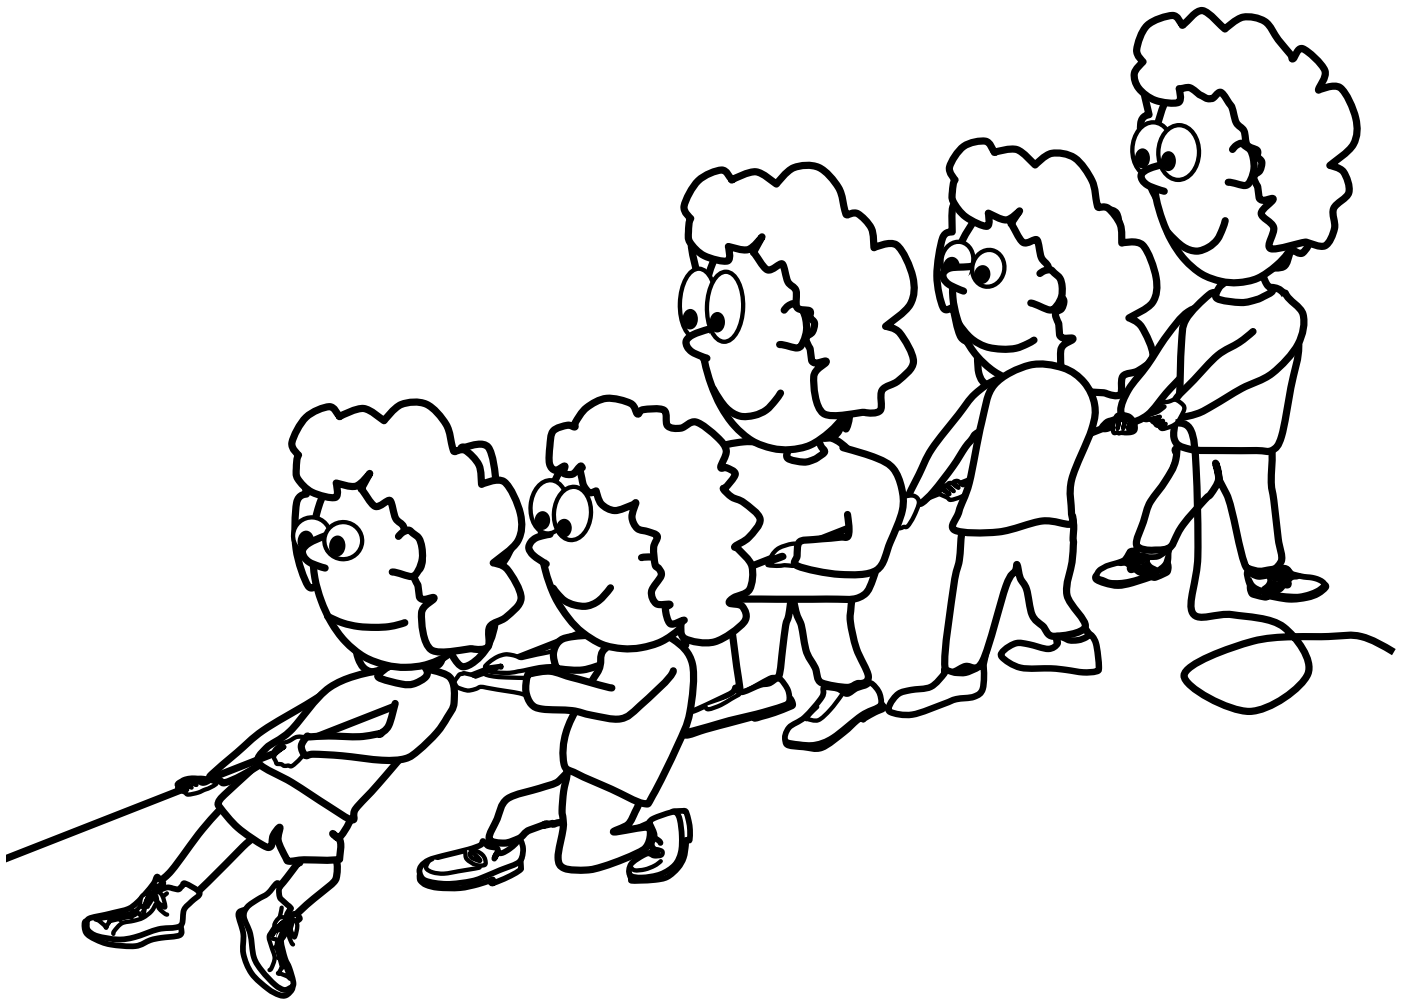

no matter which game.

No need to choose sides.

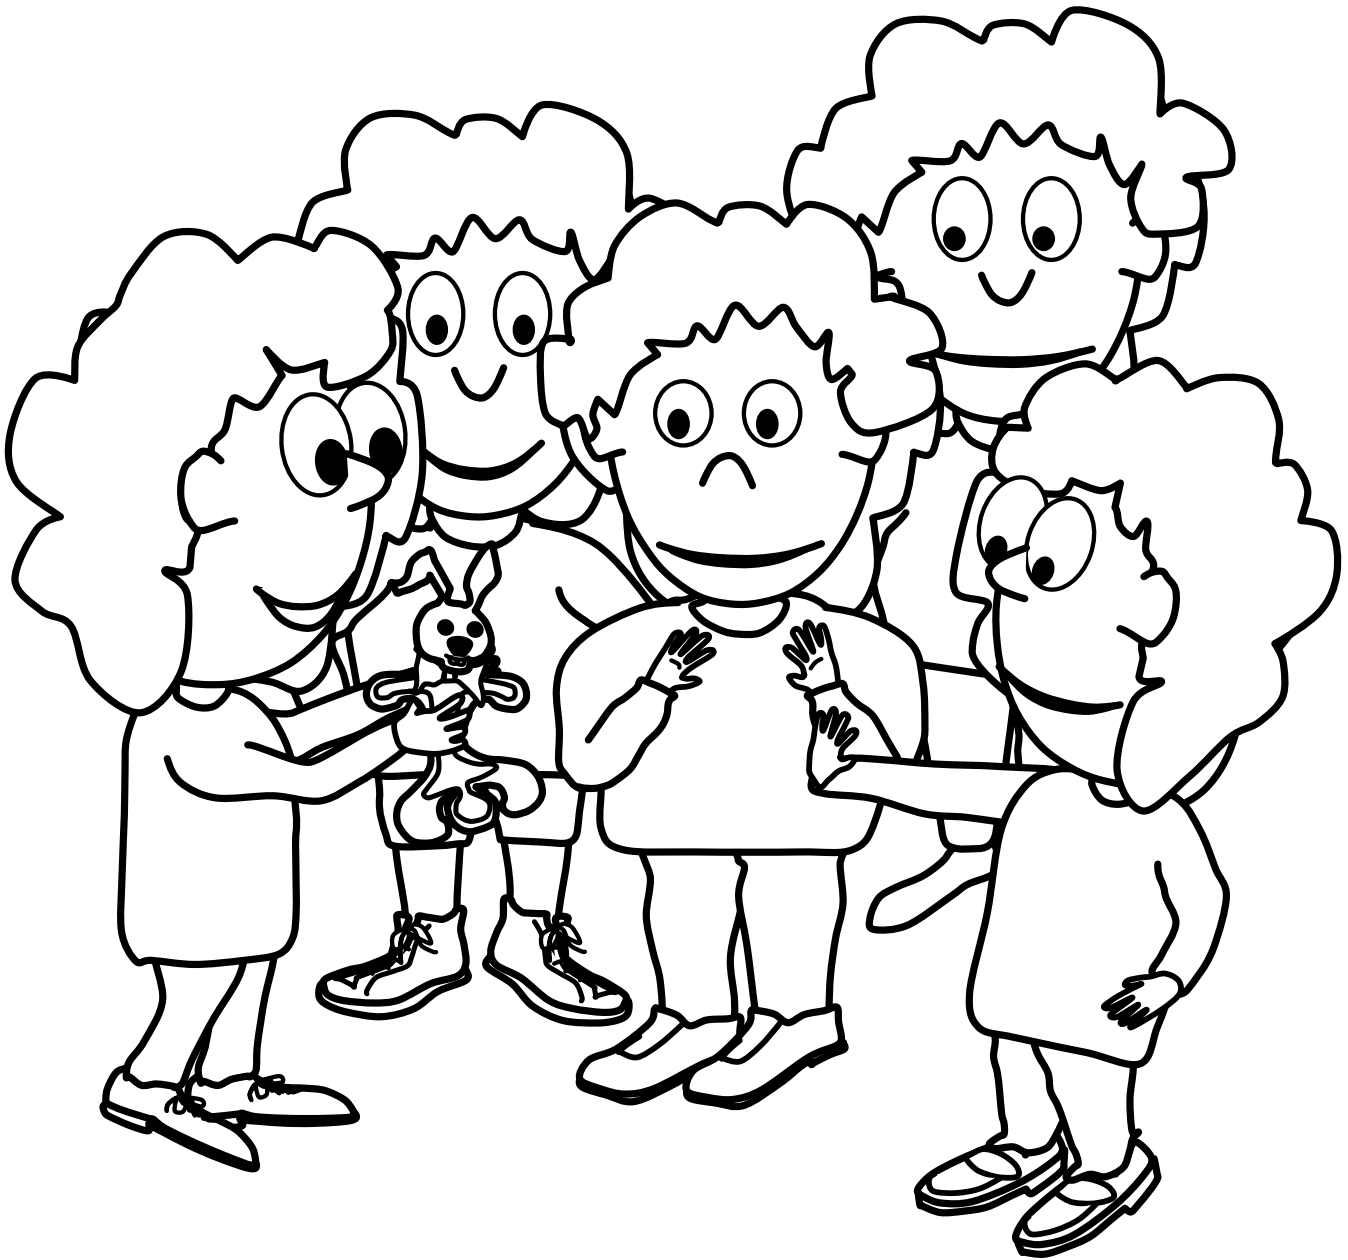

All games would be tied

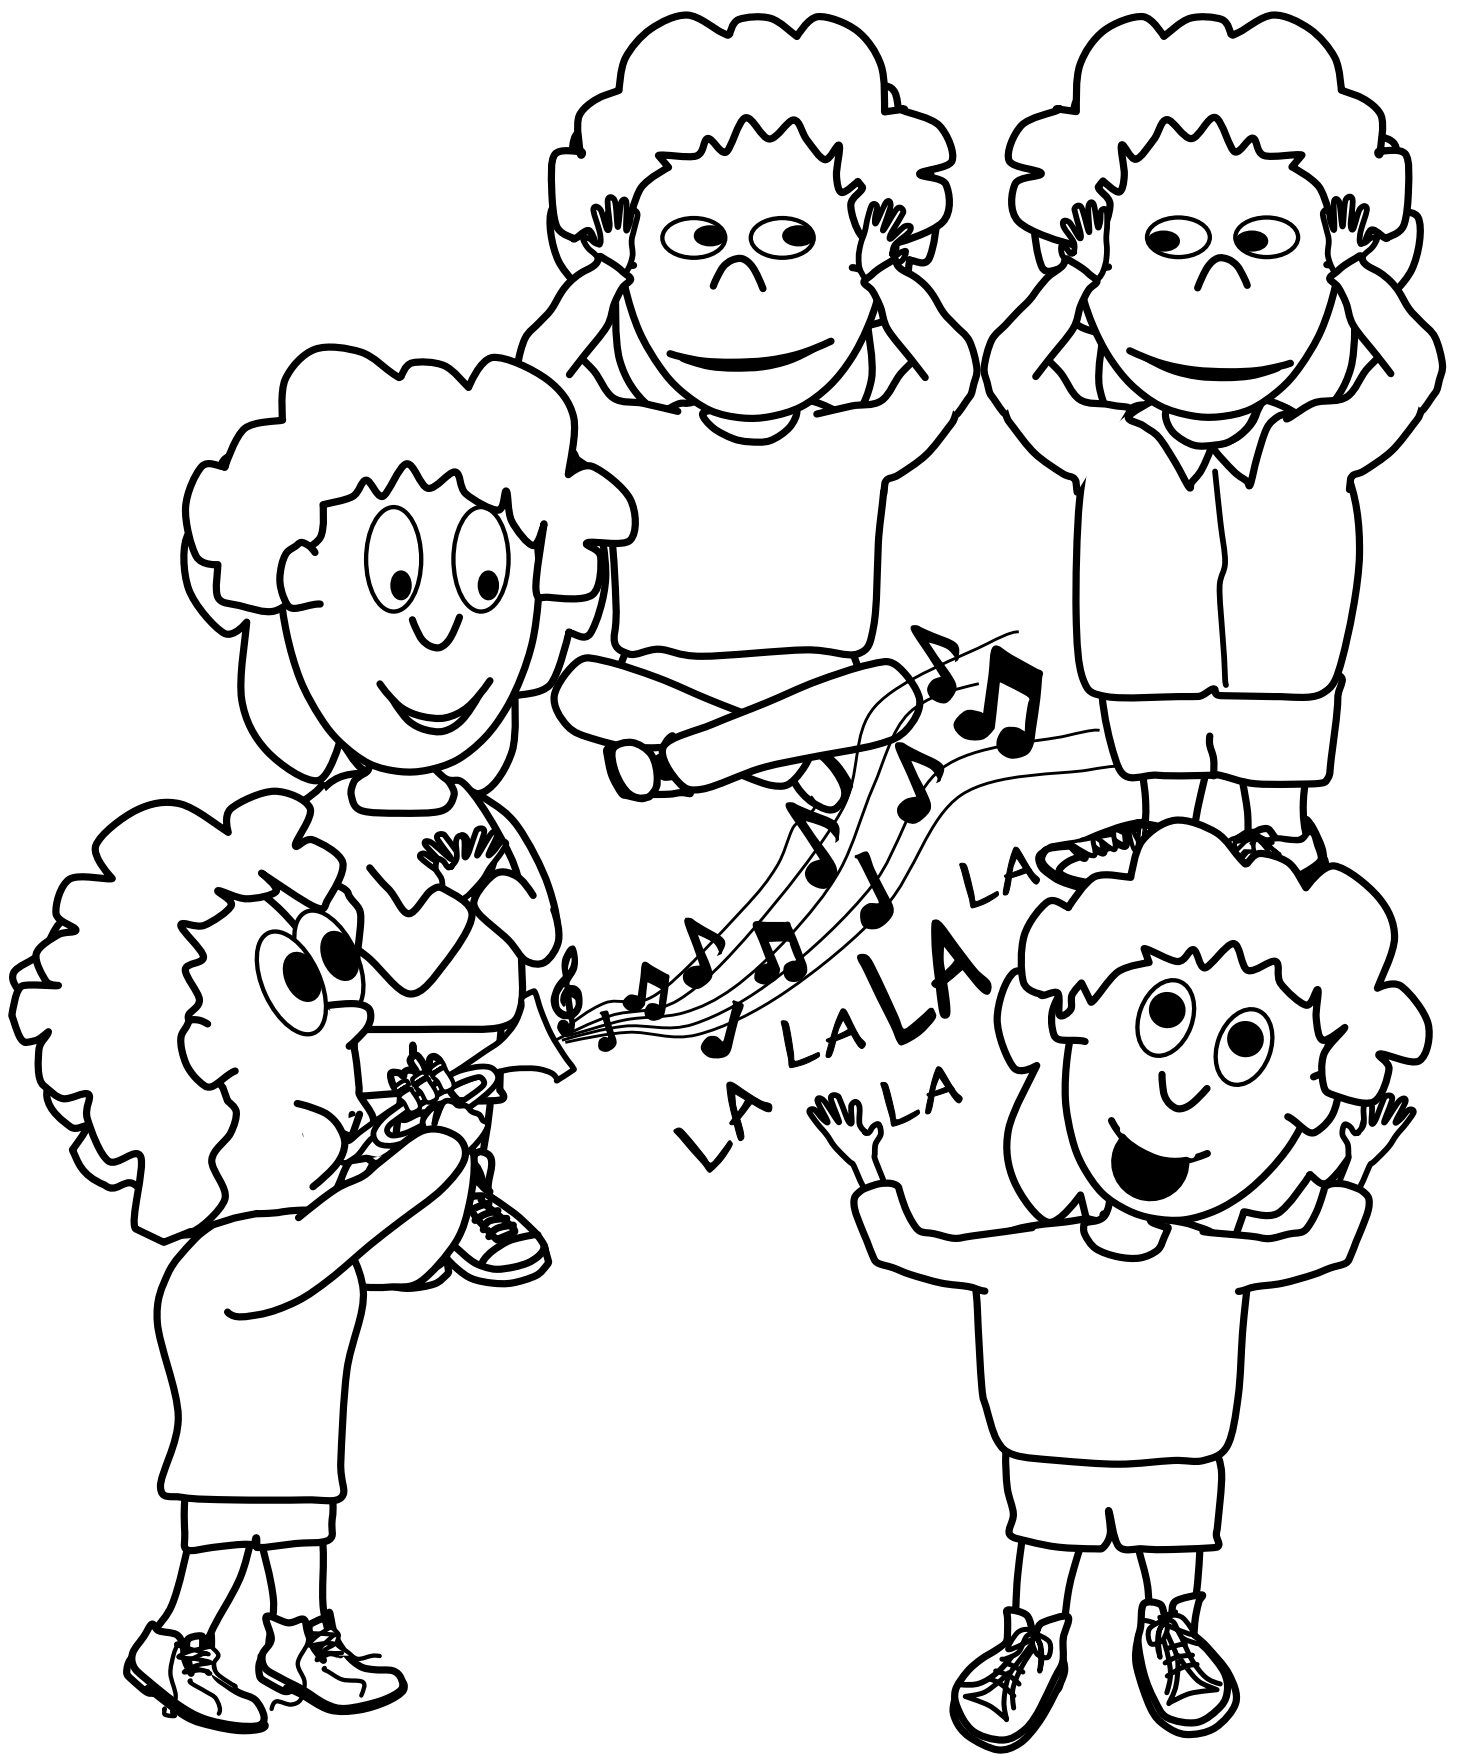

if all of us
all played the same.

What if we liked the
same things?

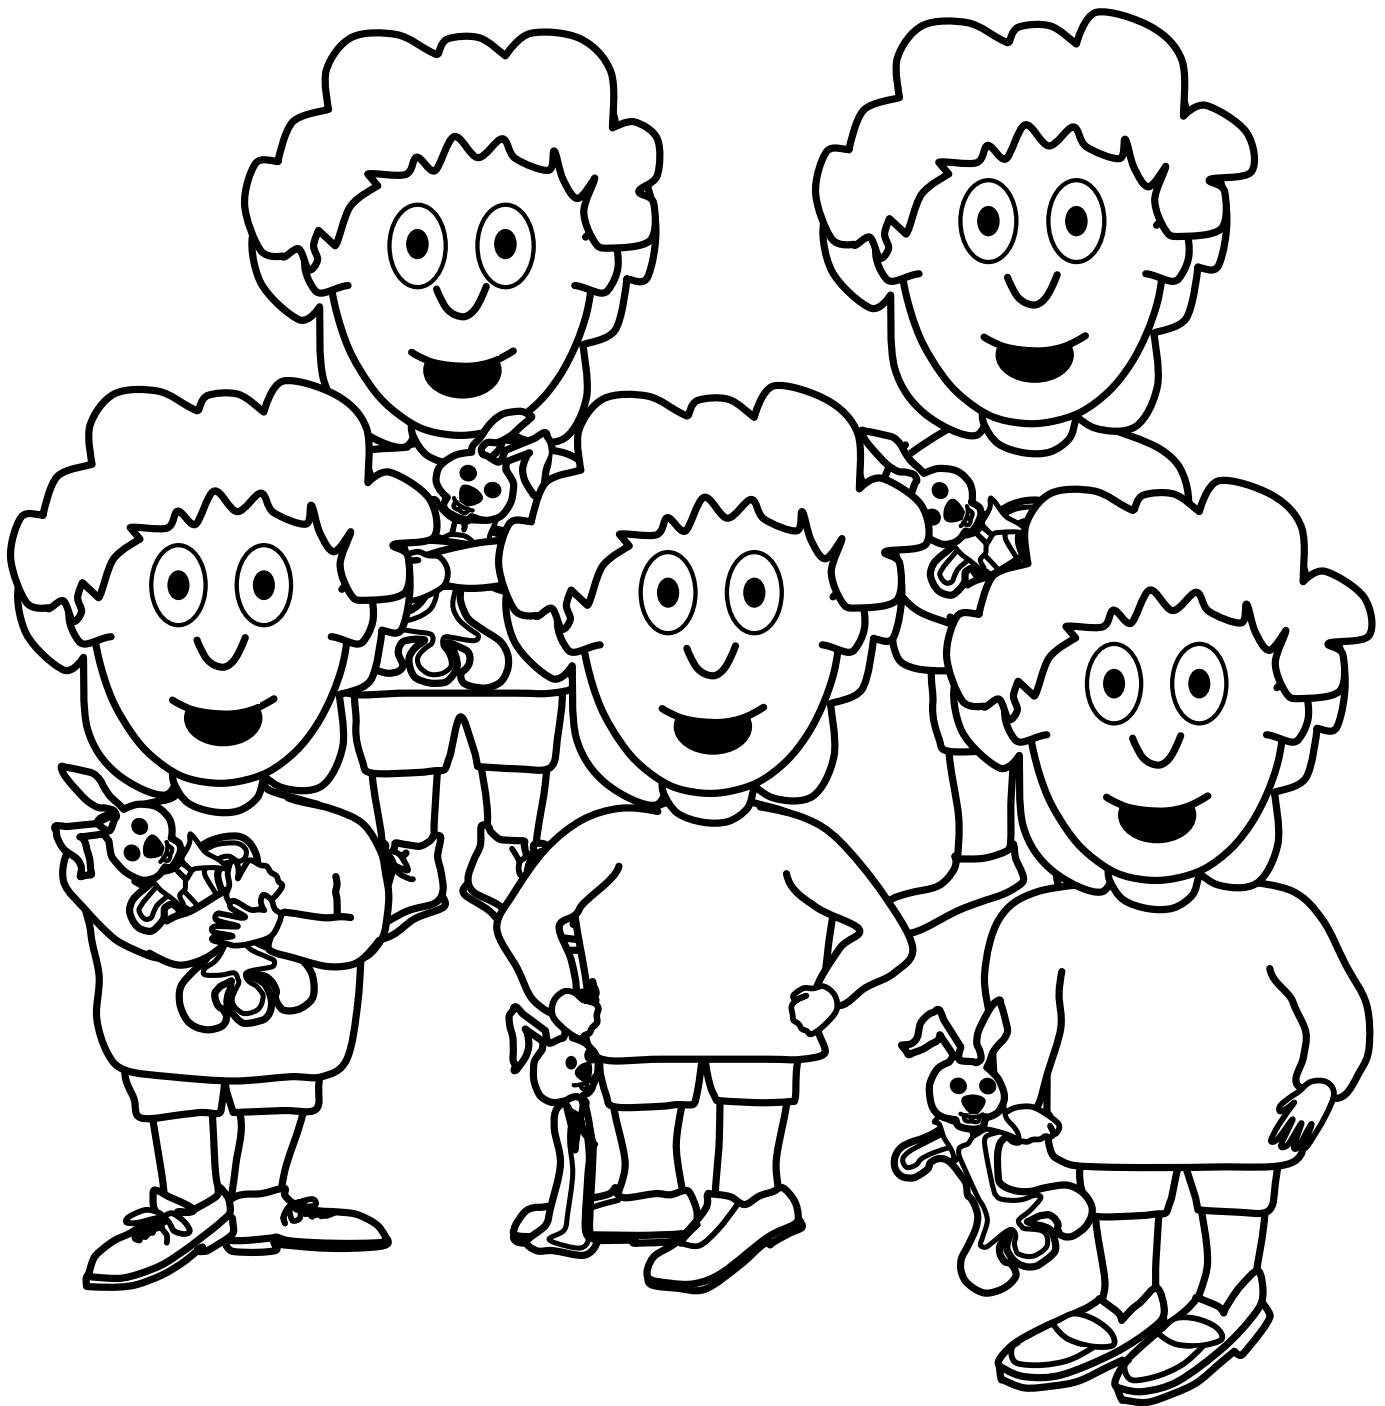

The same clothes and toys

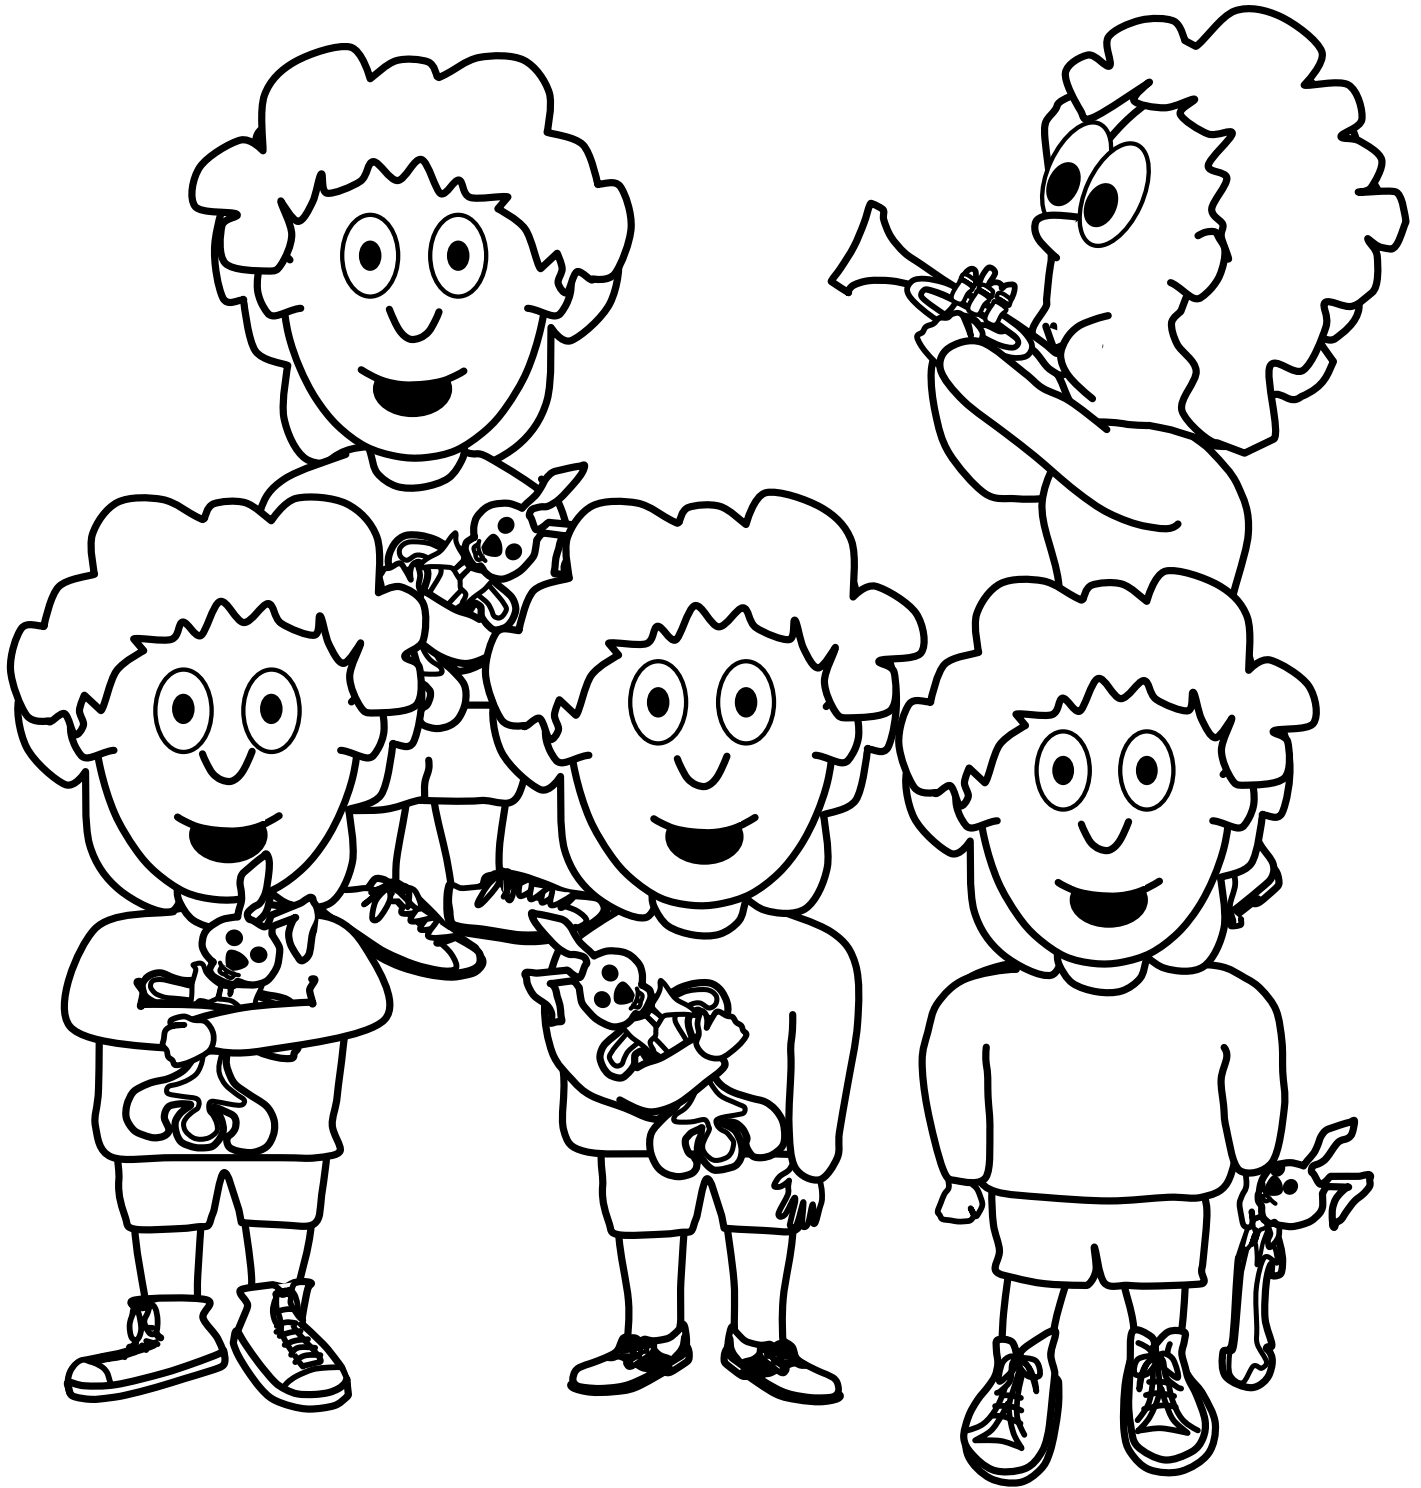

and songs we could sing!

We'd all get along
and never feel wrong

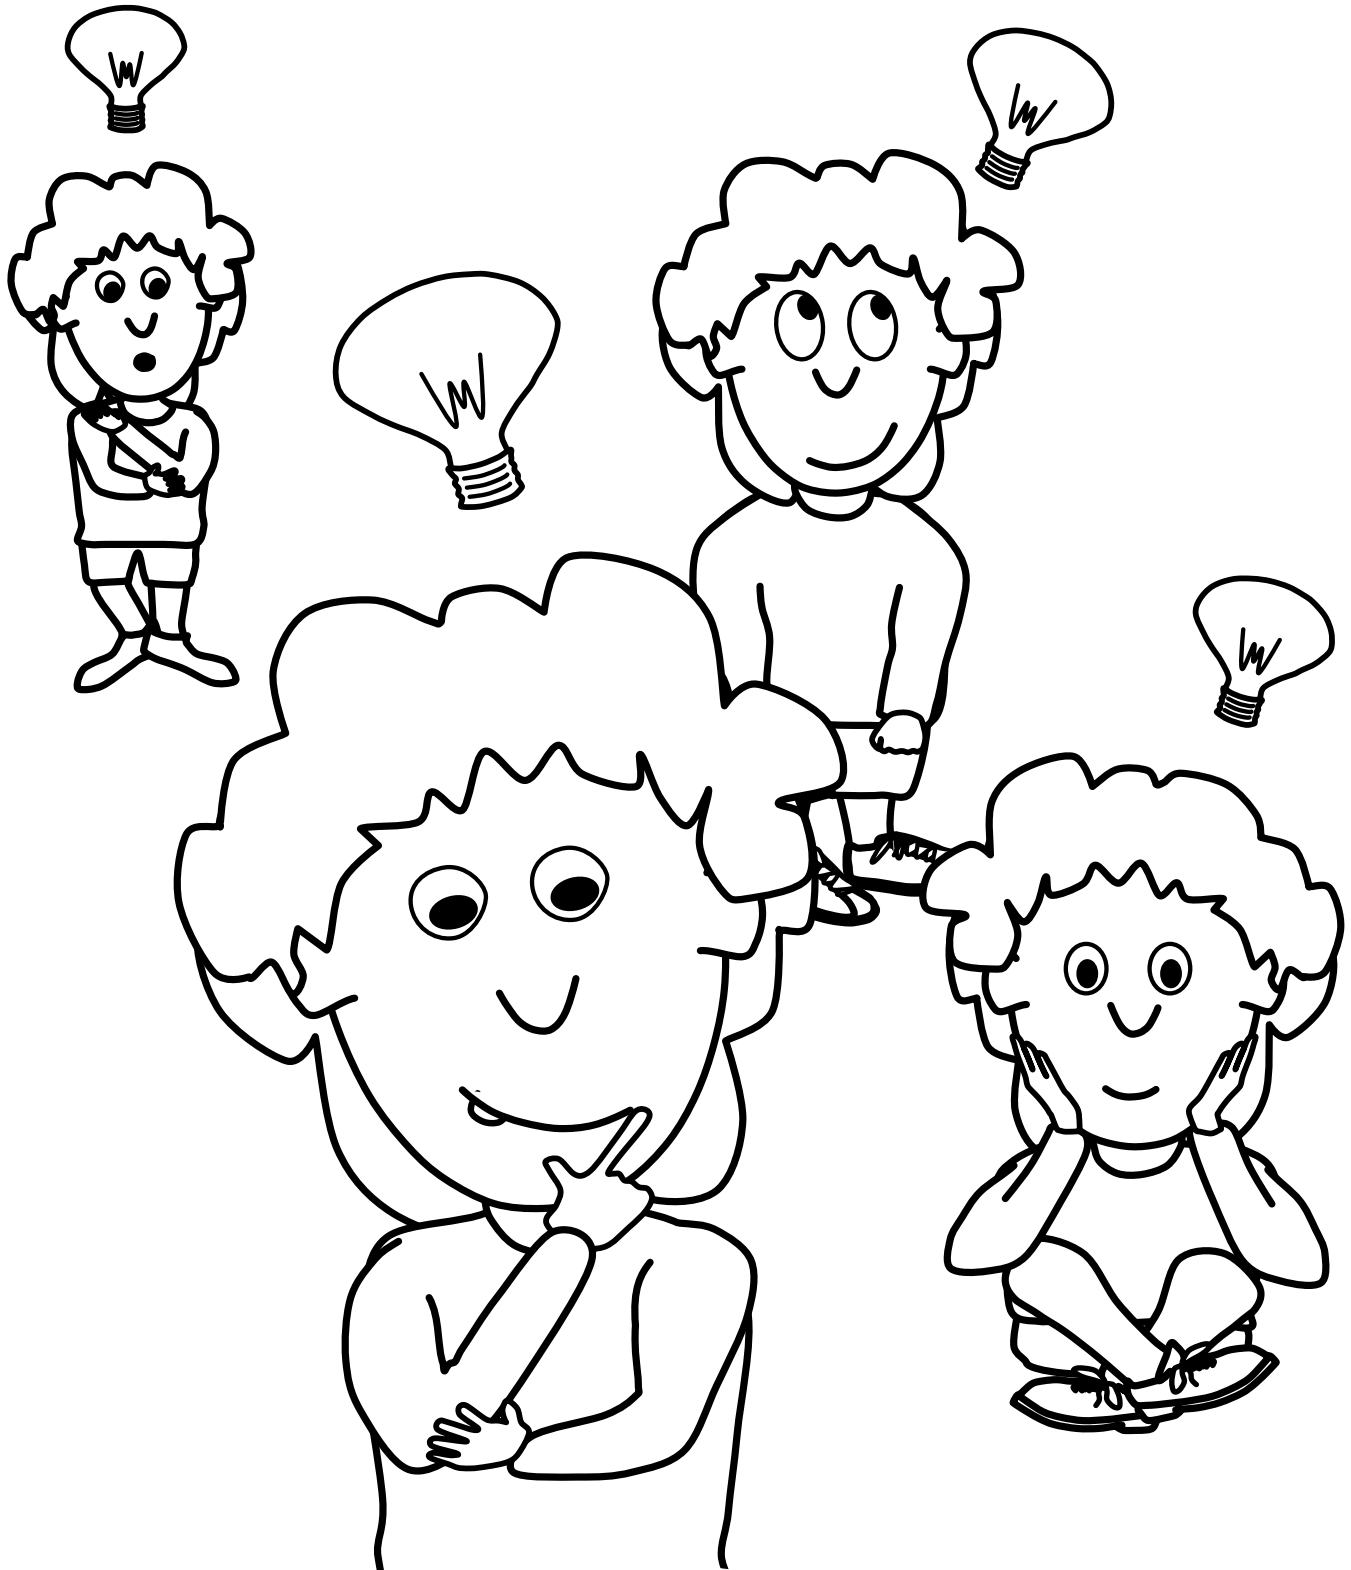

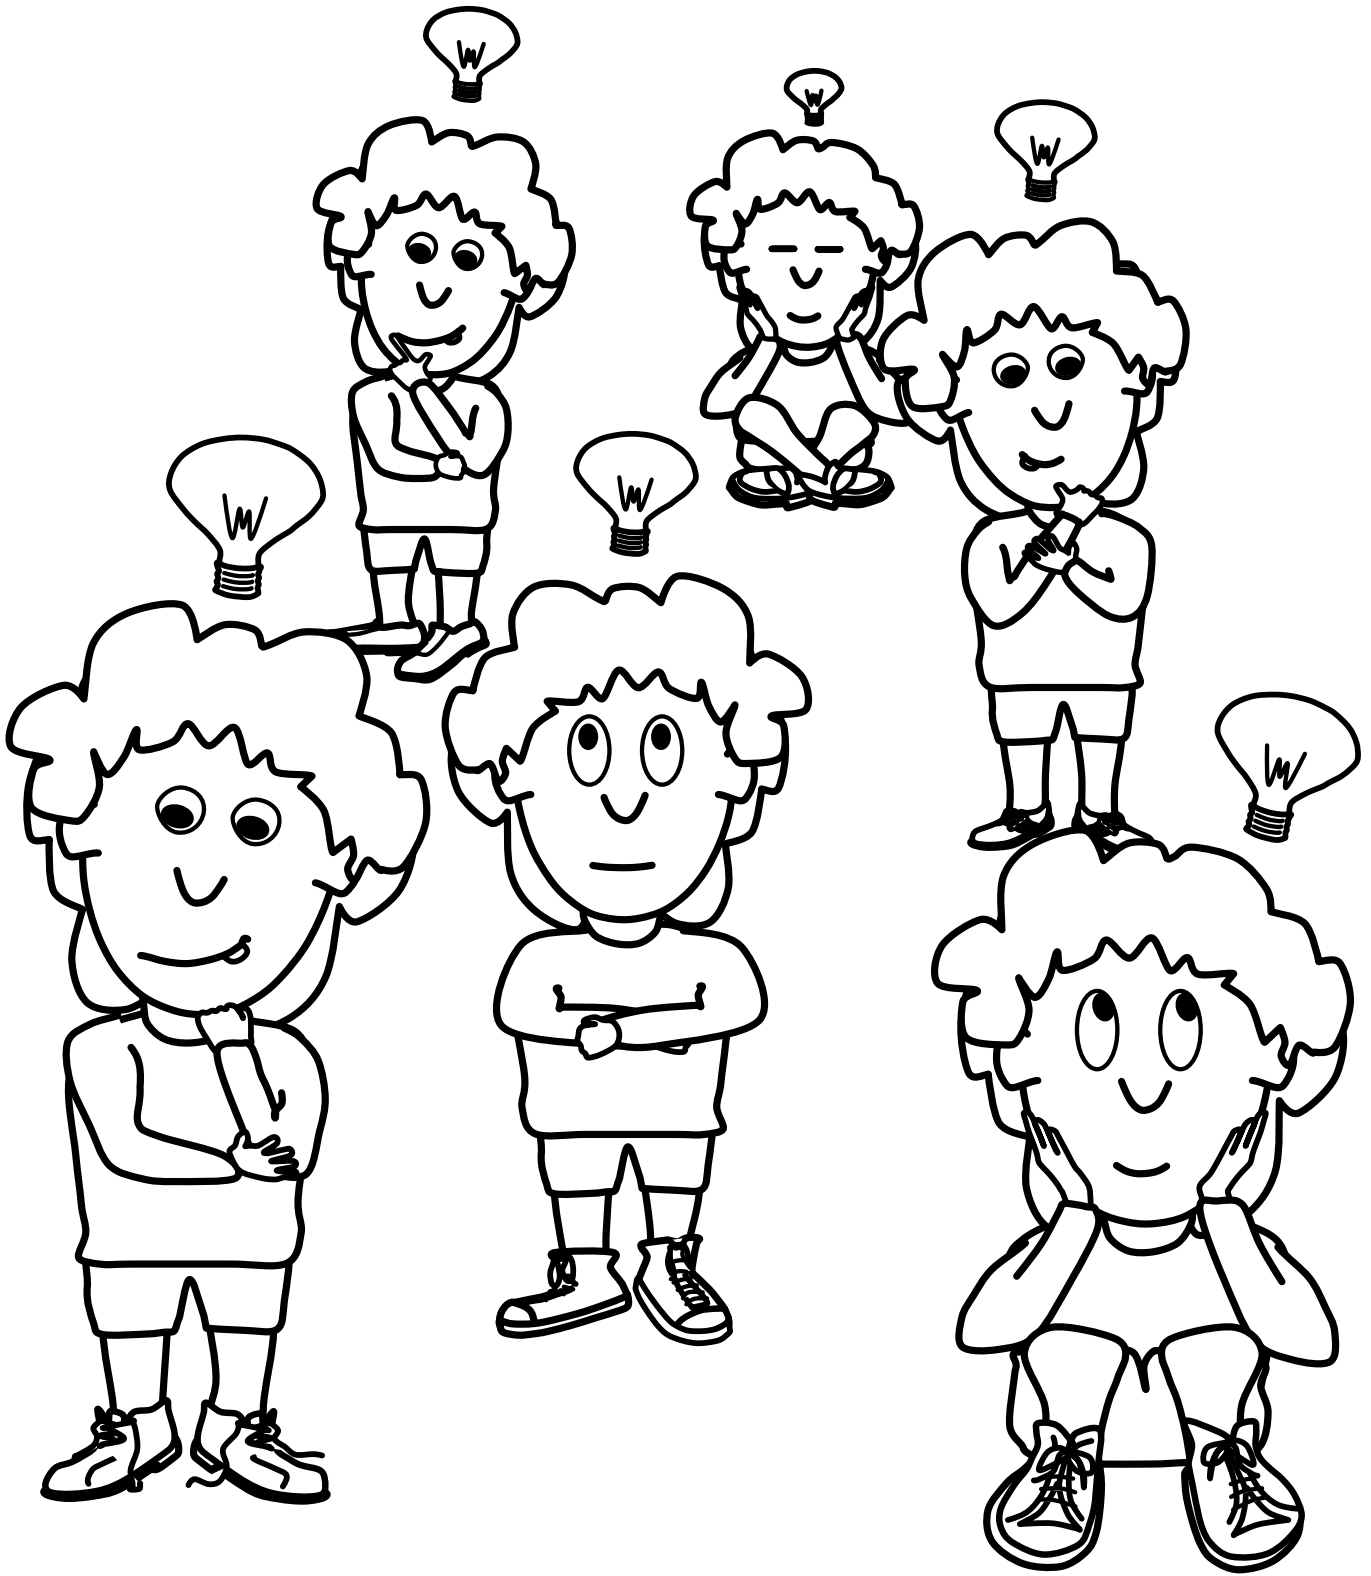

If all of us liked

the same things!

And, what if we all
thought alike?

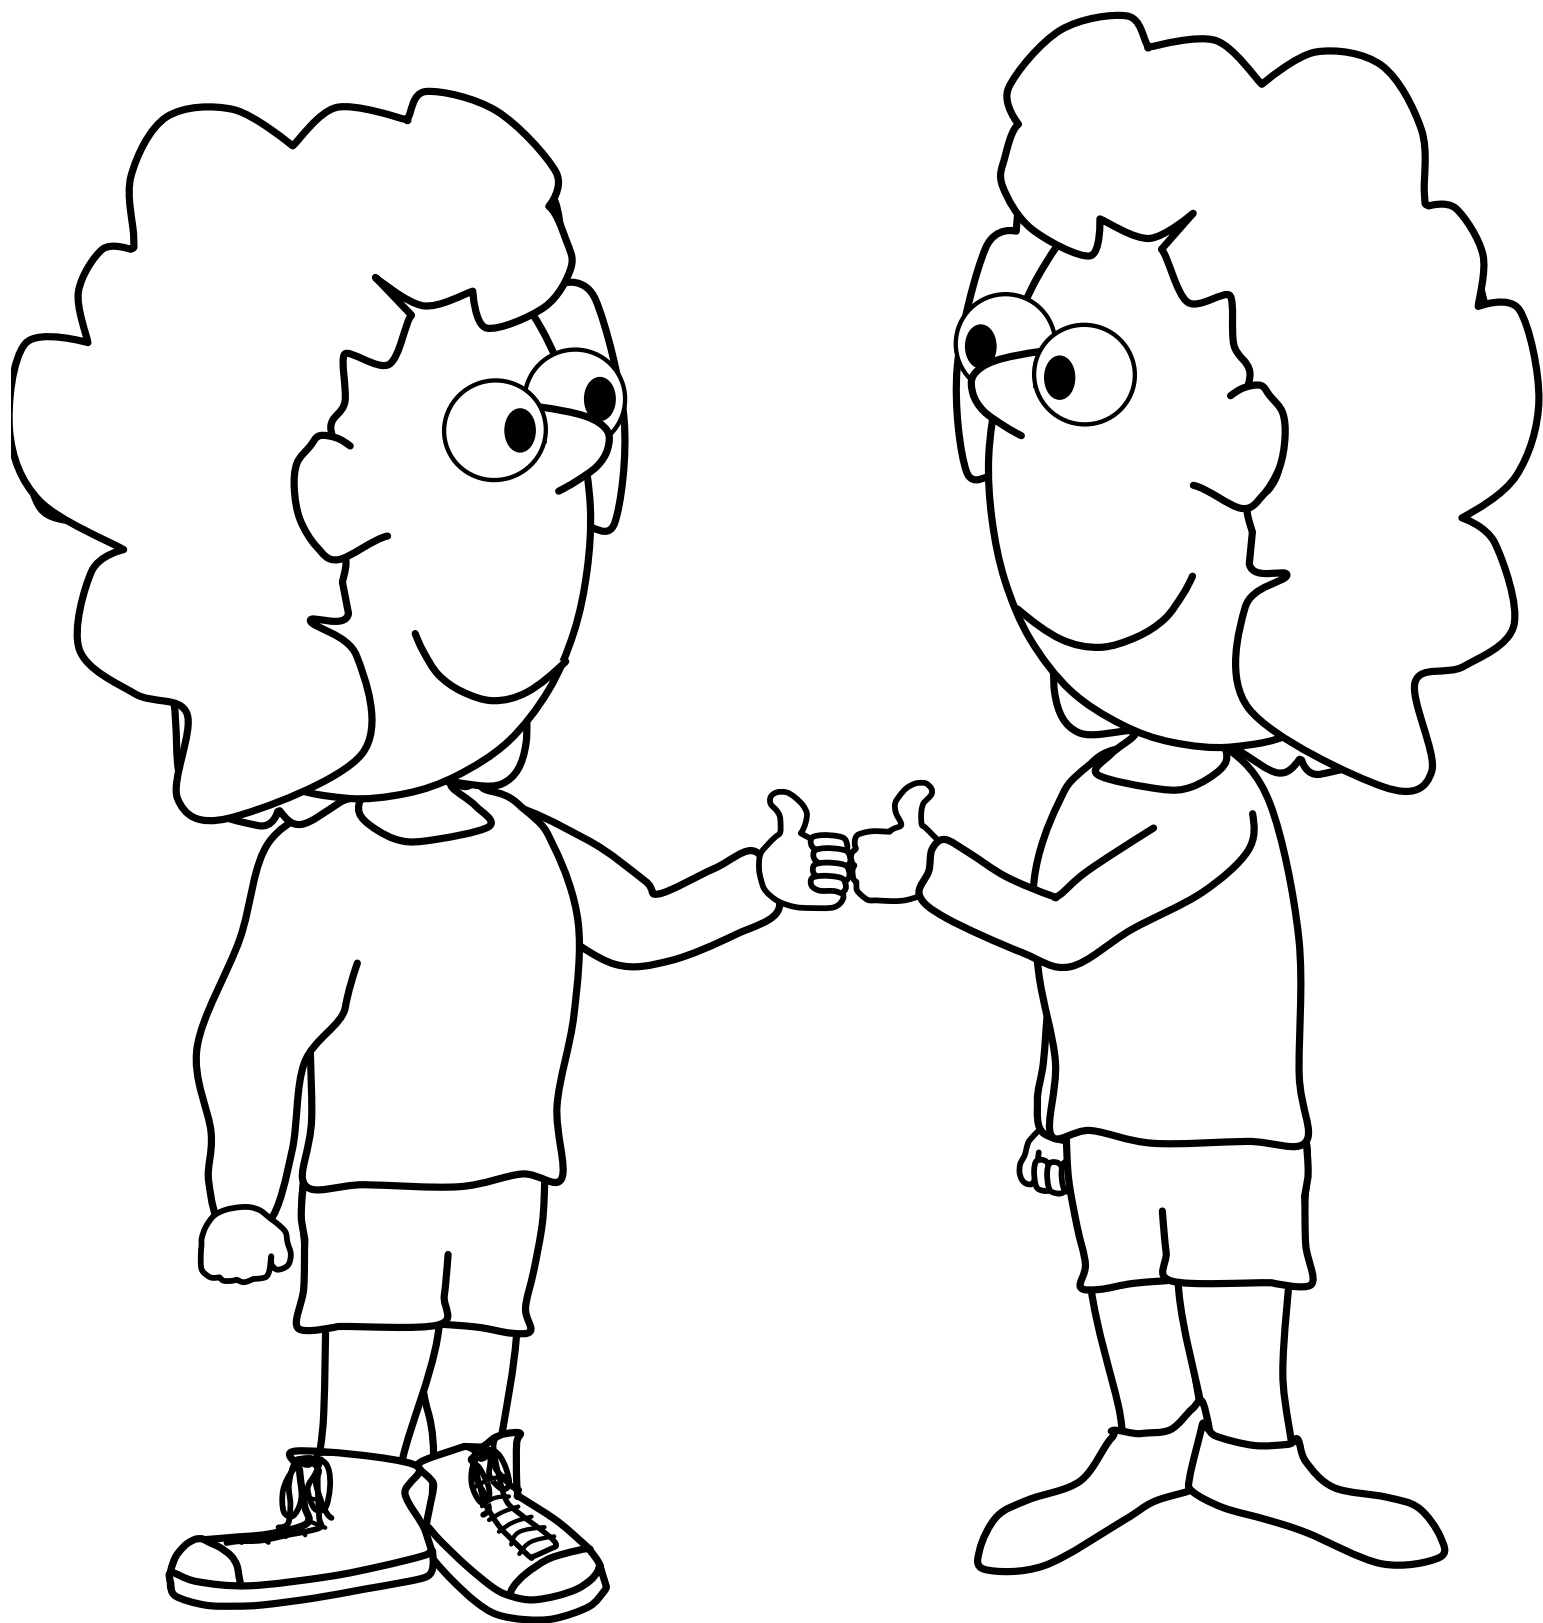

And all of our thoughts

were JUST RIGHT ?

You'd see things like me.

We'd always agree,

if all of us
all thought alike.

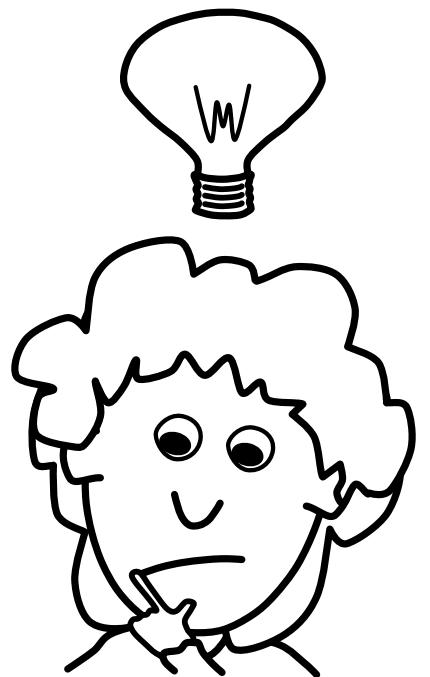

But . . .

what if

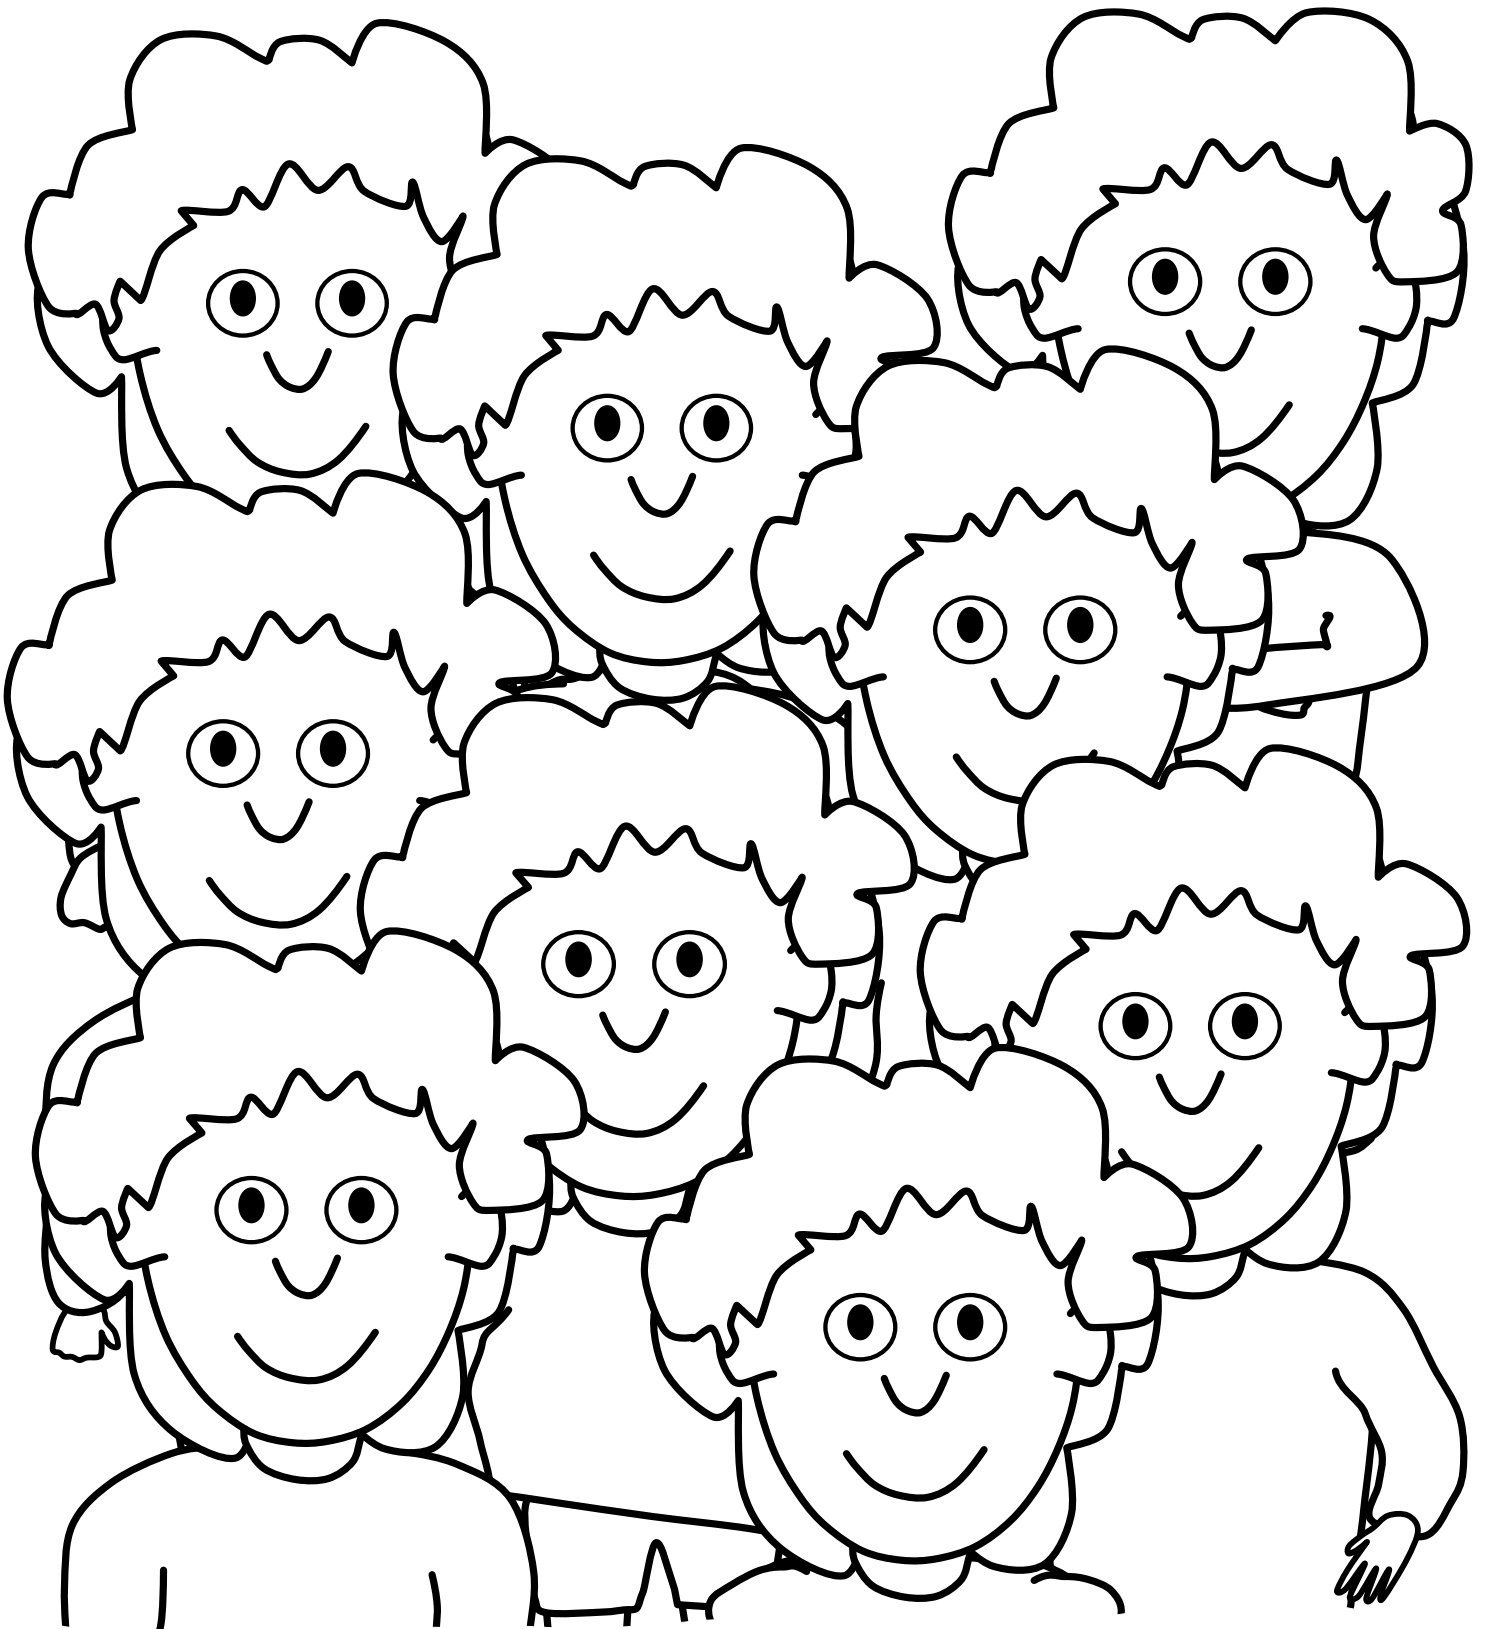

we all

thought as one?

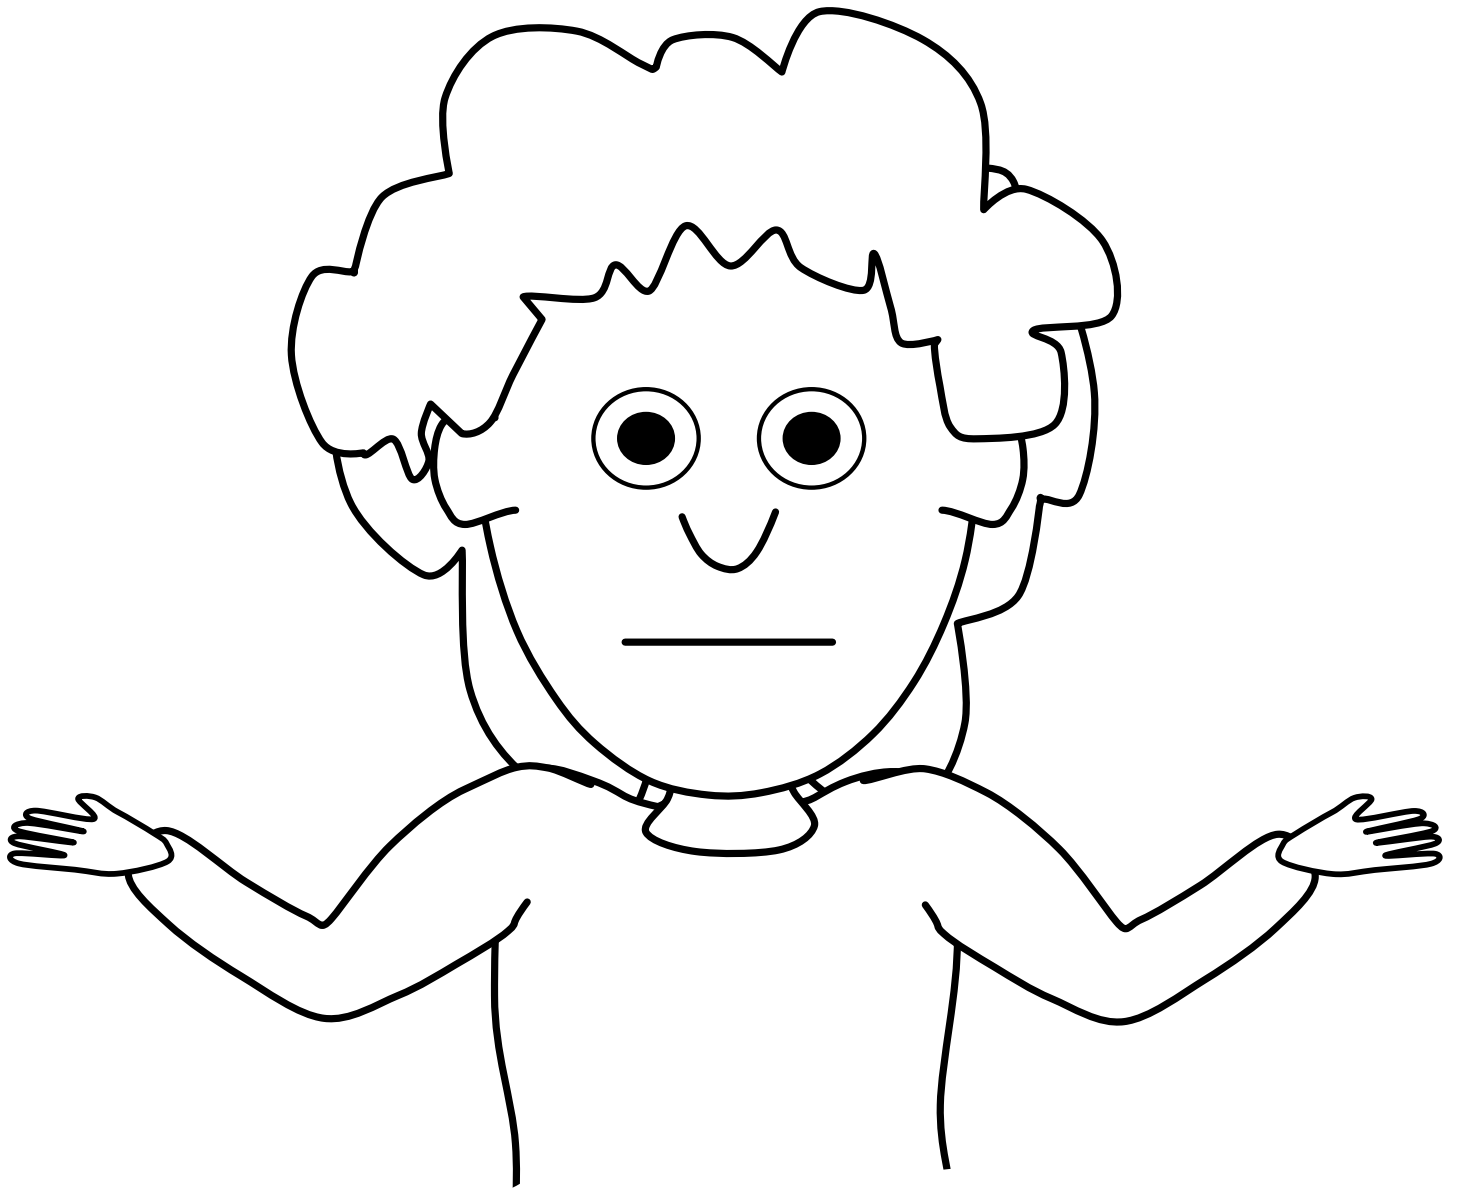

I don't think it would
be that much fun.

We'd all know
what we know,

but how would we grow

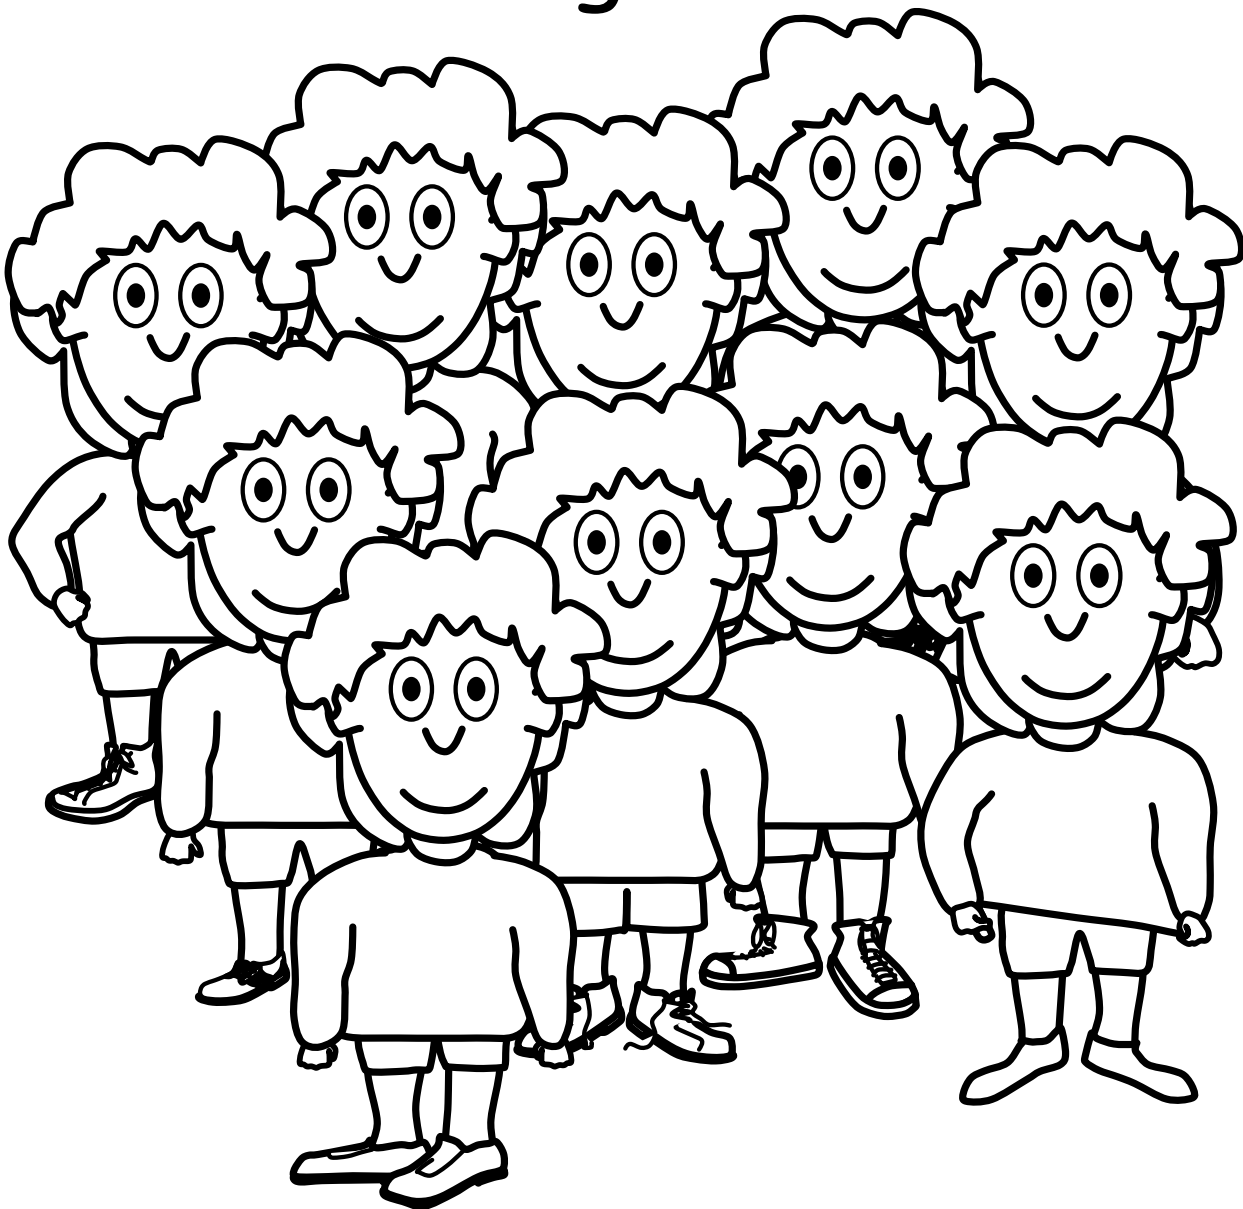

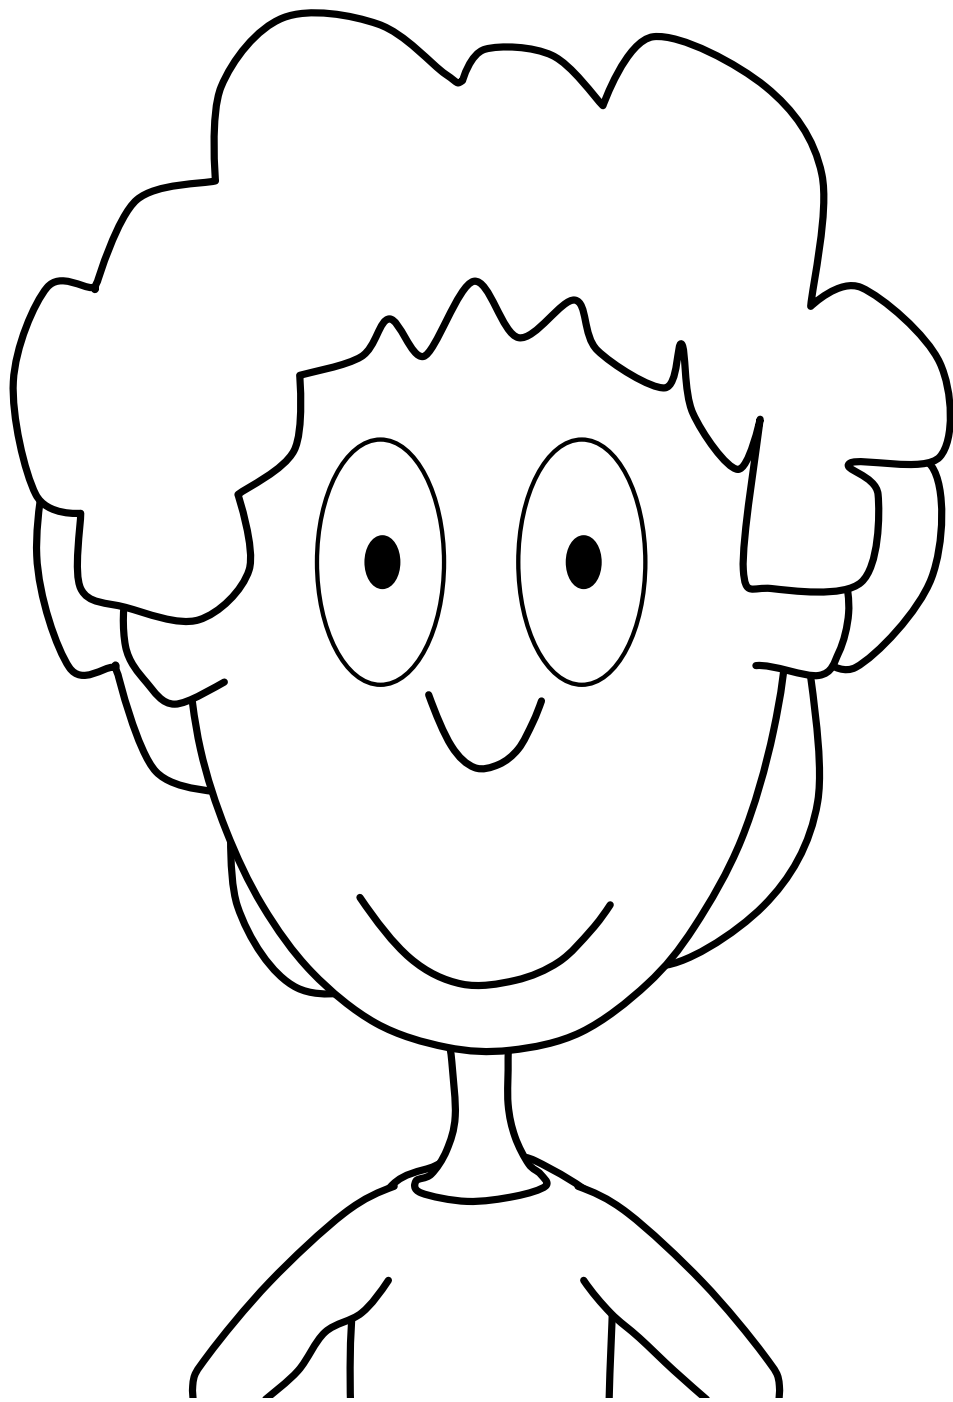

if all of us

all thought as one?

So let's not
try to be so alike.

I think we're already
alright!

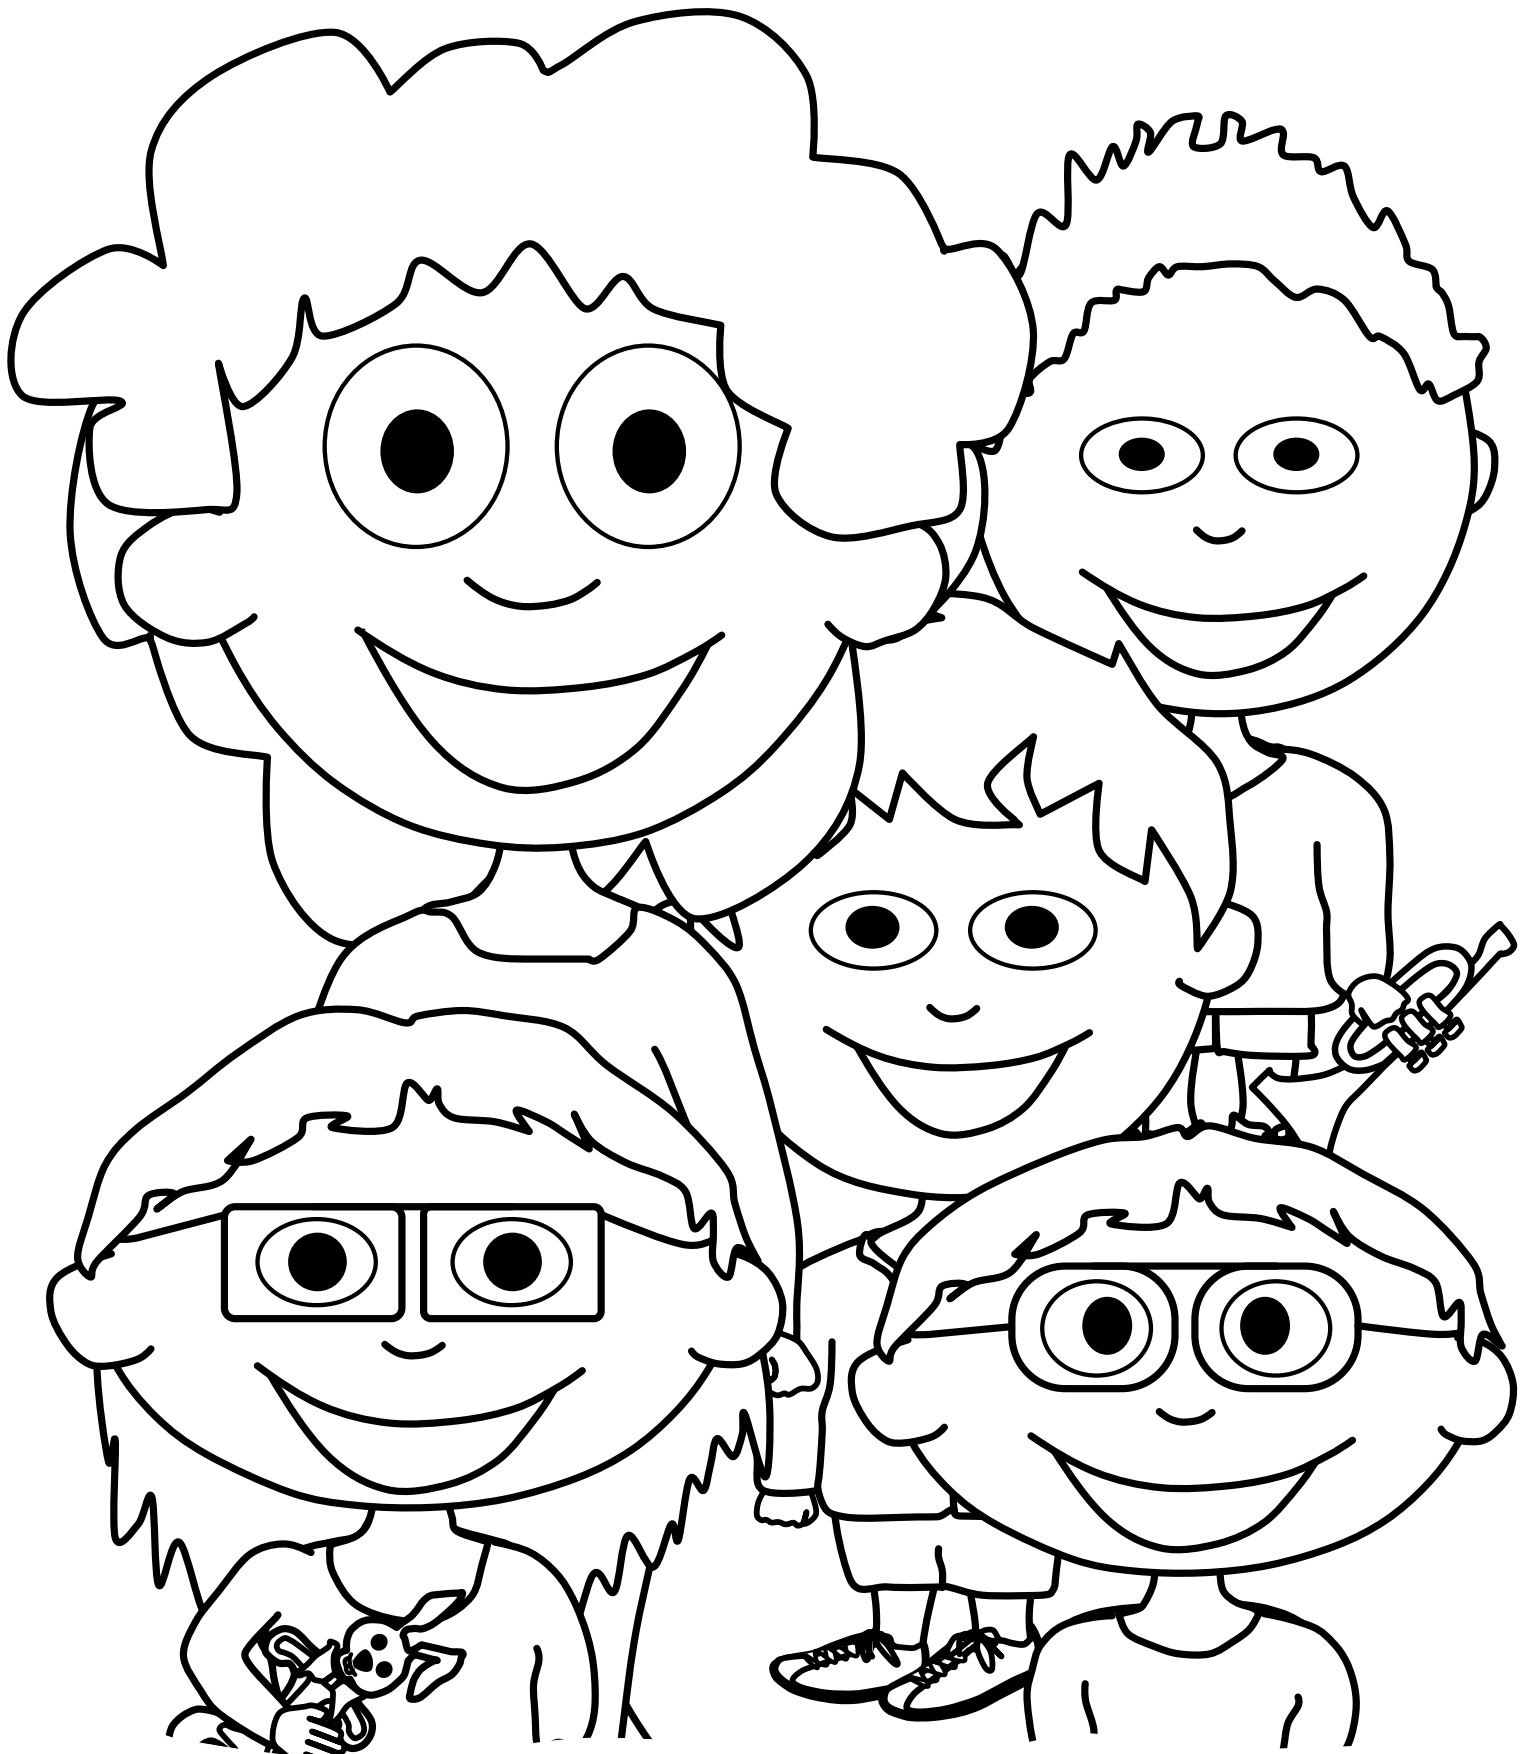

You be like you!

I'll be like me, too!

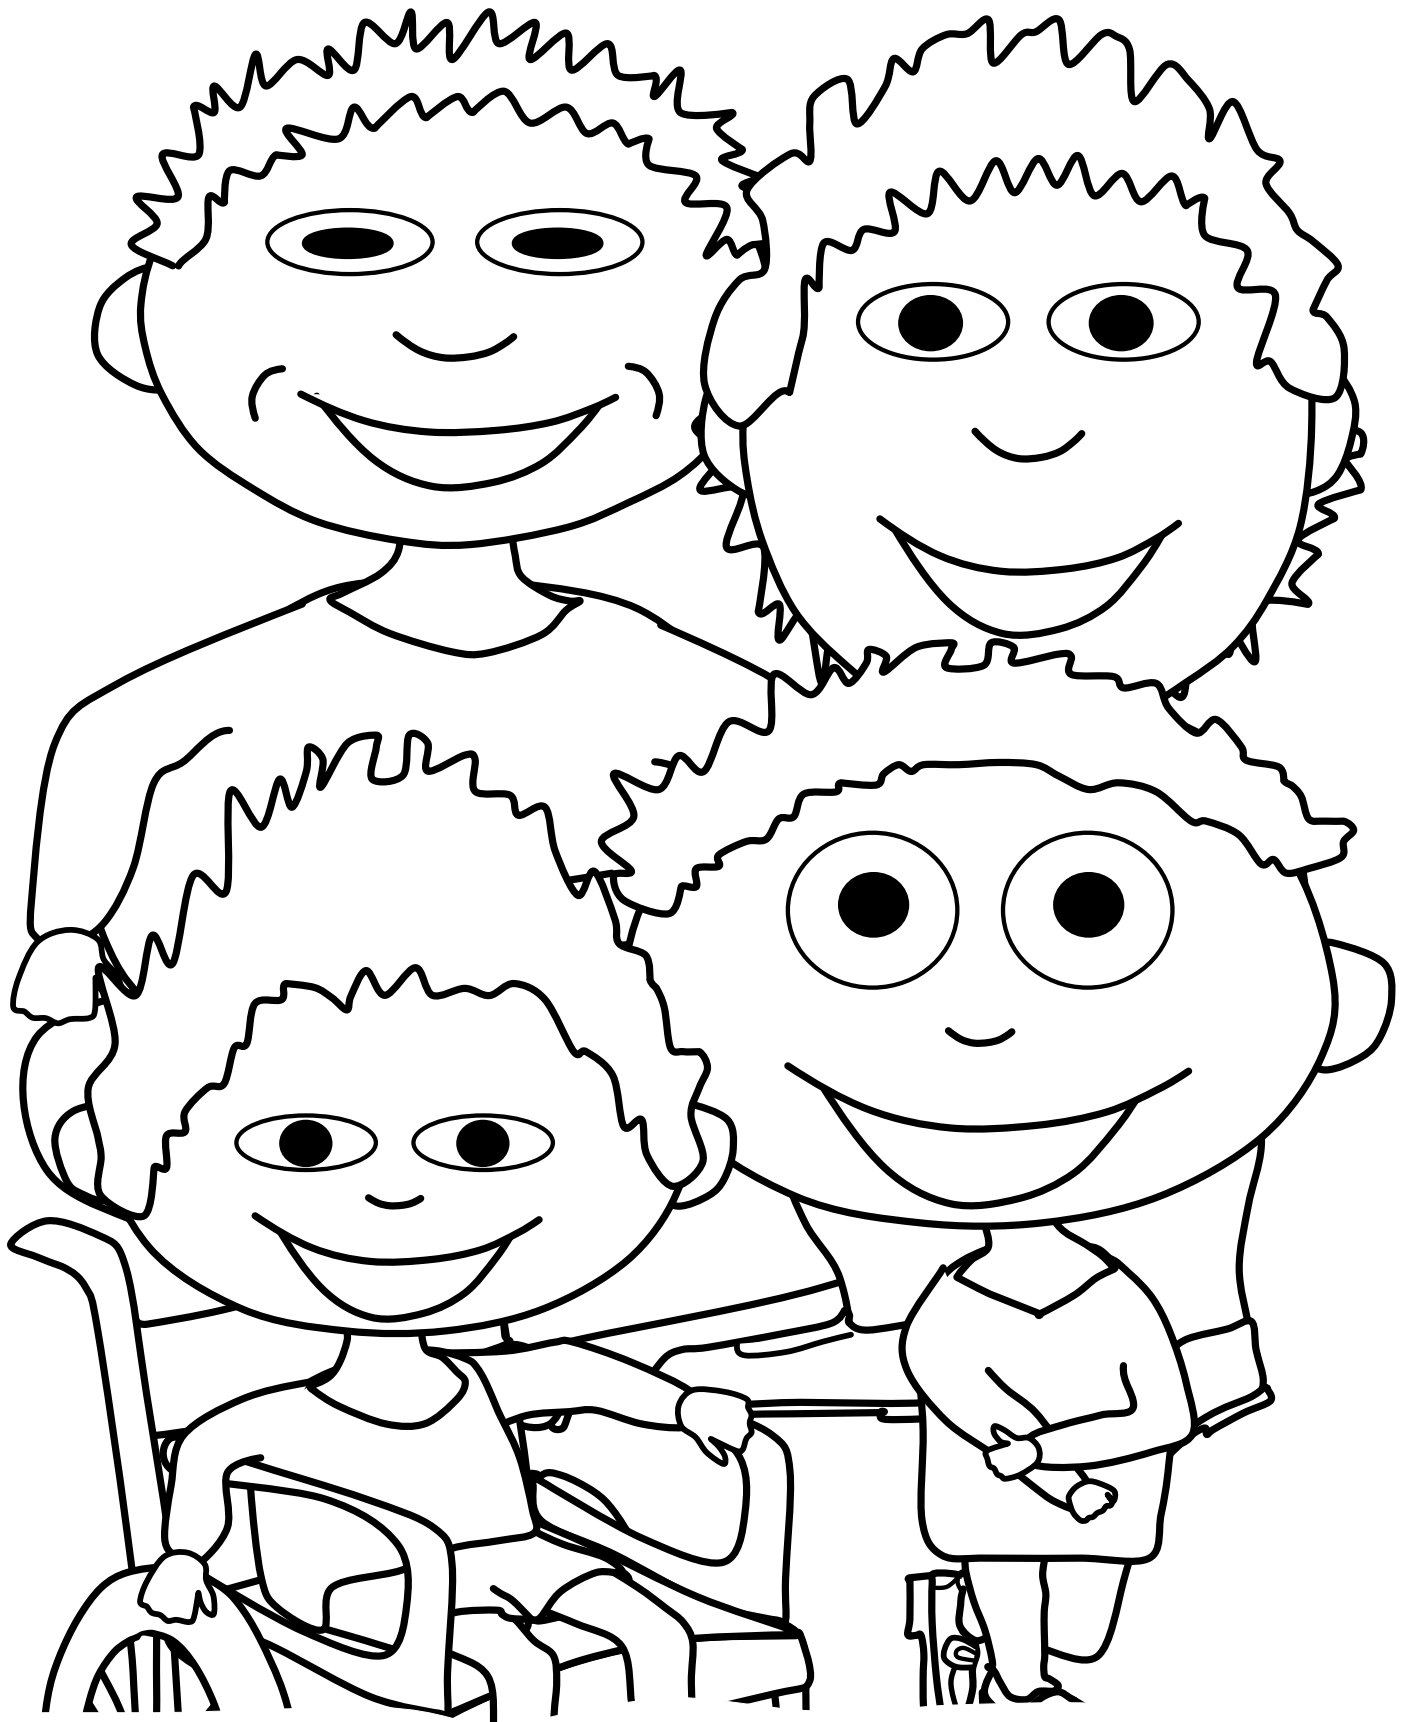

And everyone else . . .

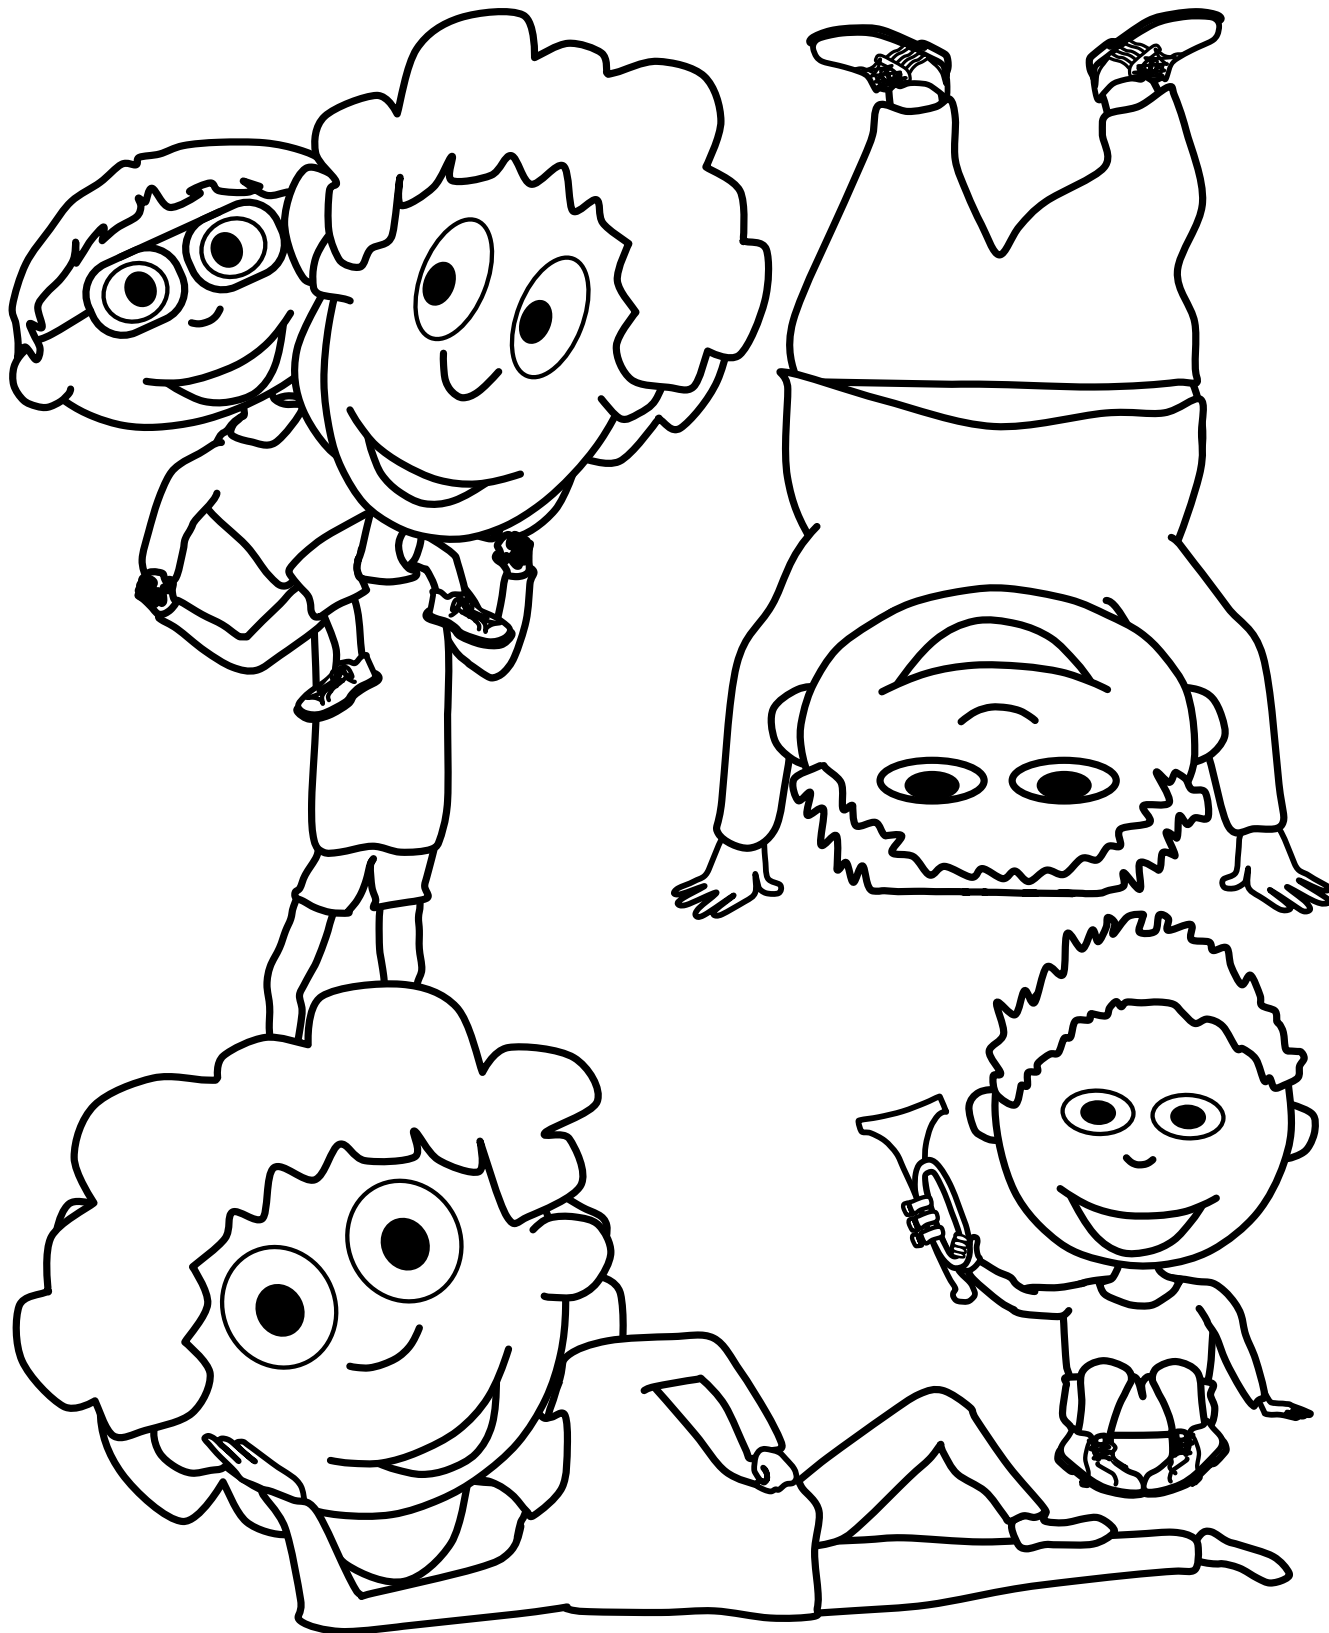

"We'll just be

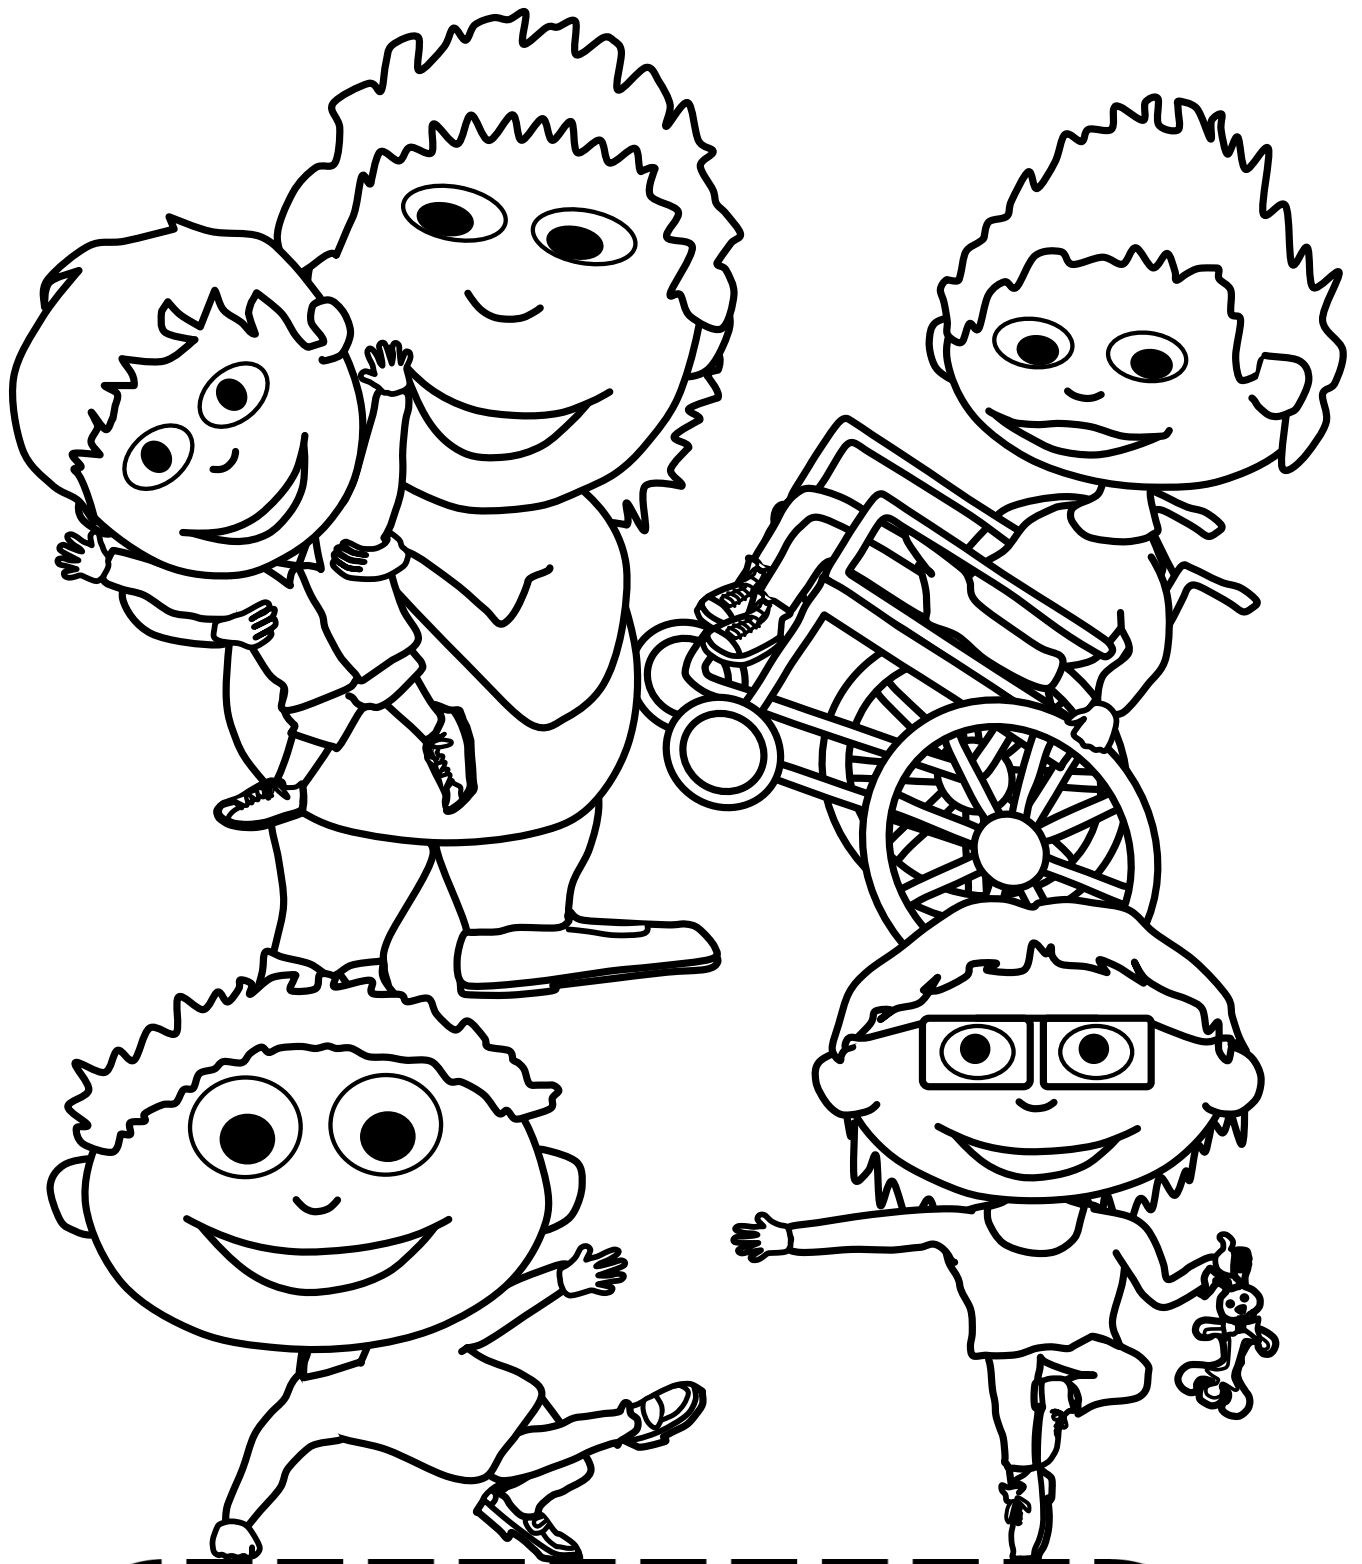

ourselves!"

And that's how

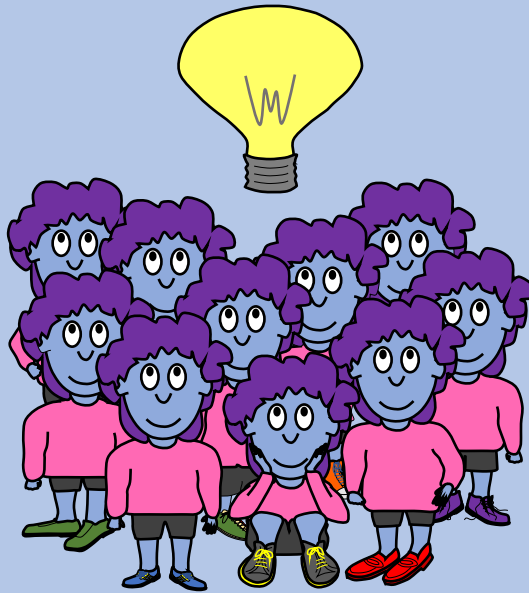

we'll all be

JUST' RIGHT'

Rhythmic verse and brightly colored illustrations fill the pages of this new children's book as we imagine a world where we all look and act and think alike.

Whether we are reading it to our kids or they are reading it back to us, we all get to celebrate our individuality and the uniqueness of others.

From the author
and illustrator of
The "Ugly" Pugling
bedtime stories.
